CHINA PROTESTS MANCHUKUO PACT

Petition Iowa Governor To Call Out State Militia

FARM STRIKE SITUATION IS CRITICAL

Group of Sheriff's Deputies Are Ambushed and Many Seriously Hurt PICKETS ARE ARRESTED

Governor Turner Hoping to Avoid Calling Out of Guards, Reporters Told

SIoux CITY, Ia., Sept. 16.—(UP)—A new appeal for Gov. Dan W. Turner to use the militia in dispersing farm pickets on highways leading to Sioux City was drawn by businessmen today.

They acted on word from Des Moines that Turner had shelved the request of Sheriff John A. Davenport for national guard aid.

SIoux CITY, Ia., Sept. 16.—(UP)—Sheriff John A. Davenport today telephoned Gov. Dan W. Turner asking that the militia be sent here after a critical situation developed in the farm strike blockade of highways leading to the city.

Gov. Turner who previously had refused requests for the national guard did not immediately indicate what action he would take.

Sheriff Davenport called on the governor for aid after the pickets forced a group of his deputies into a trap and stoned them severely.

The men were stoned in retaliation for arrest of 15 pickets by deputies yesterday in a foray in which night clubs were swung freely and a roadside picket camp burned.

Davenport informed the governor he feared further violence unless militia were sent into the area. He said his force of deputies was insufficient to prevent renewed outbreaks which he believed imminent due to the high feeling aroused by the clash of deputies and farmers.

The pickets, he said, were in an angry mood due to organized efforts of the sheriff's forces to disperse them.

Davenport said the picketers resorted to a ruse to get the sheriff's deputies out on the highways. One of the pickets telephoned the sheriff's office saying help was needed by trucks to get through the picket lines. Four carloads of deputies responded and passed unchallenged through the lines.

Then they turned about after finding no one in need of help they were met by the pickets with a hail of missiles. Rocks and clubs were thrown at the cars loaded with officers. Windshields were broken and deputies bruised.

The incident so angered the sheriff that he immediately telephoned the governor declaring that, "The situation here is beyond my control."

"I call on you to open our highways for a resumption of business throughout the Sioux City territory."

The pickets seek to raise the price of farm products by an embargo of produce on the local market.

The governor was reached at his home in Des Moines. After talking

Disappearance Of House Most Baffling

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Sept. 16.—(UP)—A two story, 7-room frame house was missing today, and H. B. Cohn was a perplexed real estate agent.

Cohn went to the site of the house to check its condition for the owner, G. W. Potts of Butler, Mo., the lot where the house once stood was vacant.

Neighbors said the house had been torn down and carted away several weeks ago.

Entire Town Threatened By Gas Fire

Two Believed Killed When Gasoline Explodes at Miami, Arizona

MIAMI, Ariz., Sept. 16.—(UP)—A giant explosion of gasoline today was feared to have taken two or more lives and to have started a fire which may resist every effort to control before it razes a large part of this town.

The explosion occurred as gasoline was being drawn from storage drums of the Texas Oil company to huge tank trucks operated by an Arizona-Long Angeles concern.

With a roar that shook the entire town and was felt in Globe, six miles away, the gasoline in one drum exploded, shooting the flames hundreds of feet into the air and showering the neighborhood with blazing oil.

Below a curtain of dense, black smoke, the flames leaped to adjoining properties. Several small houses were doomed, and the blaze was creeping toward the outbuildings of the neighboring Union Oil plant, where thousands of gallons more of gasoline were stored.

As thousands lined nearby hills to watch the spectacle, firemen from Miami and Globe concentrated on trying to keep the blaze from the other plant. Should it, too, be reached, and a second explosion follow, it was feared there would be no way to check the flames before they had eaten through a large part of the residential section beyond.

RECEIVER'S REPORT REVEALS TRAGIC STORY OF LOSS OF ONE BILLION

CHICAGO, Sept. 16.—(UP)—The tragic story of where approximately $1,000,000,000 of the investing public's money went in the crash of the Midwest Utilities company was told in red ink in a receiver's report submitted to the Federal court today.

The report covered the giant Insull Holding company, but not the future of the company's subsidiaries. It deals with the period from Jan. 1, 1930, to April 14, 1932, when the company went into receivership.

A loss to investors of more than $714,000,000 in common stock alone was indicated in the summary of auditors for receivers Edward N. Hurley and Charles A. McCulloch. McCulloch commented:

"The audit speaks for itself. In the opinion of Mr. Hurley and myself, the future of the company depends on a change in business conditions and on good management."

While the receivers and their attorneys were enroute to United States District Judge Walter C. Lindley's chambers to confer regarding filing of the report, Lindley and State's Attorney John A. Swanson completed a brief conference looking to an inquiry into the entire Insull utilities empire.

"We have found no evidence of criminality so far," Judge Lindley said.

Swanson's comment was: "We discussed the entire Insull situation but found no evidence of law violation. We reached an agreement to collaborate, the state to assist the Federal government in any matters under its jurisdiction and the Federal government to aid the state in like manner."

Before the Middlewest Utilities report was submitted, attorneys for the company and for the Mississippi Valley Utilities Investment company, a subsidiary, agreed to turn over control of the American Central Holding company, a $5,000,000 or $6,000,000 concern, to R. W. Morrison, San Antonio, Tex. The American Central holds stocks in Mexican operating companies. The move was made, it was explained, for the benefit of stockholders in the parent concerns.

FOREST FIRE STILL IS OUT OF CONTROL

SANTA BARBARA, Sept. 16.—(UP)—The forest fire which has been raging in Santa Barbara National forest for more than a week was reported still to be out of control in four districts today.

GERMAN DEMANDS FOR EQUAL ARMS RIGHTS ARE ENDORSED

PROBLEMS AFFECTING agriculturists of the nation and legislation which has been enacted, legislative measures which will be urged by the Farm Bureau Federation and new approaches and analyses of agricultural problems, were discussed last night before a large crowd at a meeting at the Orange Union high school.

The meeting was sponsored by Orange County Farm Bureau with Chester H. Gray of Washington, D. C., director of the American Farm Bureau Federation legislative department, as the speaker.

Gray was introduced by J. A. Smiley, director of the Orange County Farm Bureau. Gray said that he had a double purpose in coming to California. He wanted to

Two British Leaders Say Claim Just

ARTHUR HENDERSON ASSERTS WORLD PEACE DEPENDS ON HEEDING DEMAND

LONDON, Sept. 16.—(UP)—Germany's demand for equality in armament with other world powers was considered strengthened today by endorsement of two most active disarmament leaders, Arthur Henderson, chairman of the World Disarmament Conference, and the veteran Lord Cecil Henderson.

Henderson told the National Peace Council on the eve of his departure for Geneva, where the steering committee of the World Disarmament Conference meets early next week, that the world's hopes of peace through disarmament may be shattered unless the German demand is heeded.

Lord Cecil, who observed his 68th birthday two days ago still convinced that the world can be educated to peace, called the German equality claim "irresistible."

He headed the British delegation to Geneva for many years.

Germany already has boycotted two meetings of the conference budgetary committee at Geneva. She is expected to quit the conference, and probably withdraw from the League of Nations, unless the powers consider her demand.

FIVE POLITICAL PARTIES READY FOR CAMPAIGNS

ELECTORS CHOSEN AND PLATFORMS ADOPTED THURSDAY AT CONCLAVES

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Sept. 16.—(UP)—Five political parties in California launched their presidential campaigns today.

Republican, Democratic, Prohibition, Socialist and Liberty parties, each of which held one-day state conventions at Sacramento yesterday, were started on the quadrennial marathon that ends with the general election November 8.

The Roosevelt-Garner campaign was placed in the hands of Maurice Harrison of San Francisco, who represented a compromise between the warring factions of William Gibbs Adair and Justus S. Wardell.

Harrison was given "full authority" to act for the party, and was endorsed for chairman of the new Democratic State Central committee to be organized here September 24.

Harmony prevailed throughout the day in the convention chambers, in contrast to the bitter sessions

YOUTH CONFESSES HE KILLED FATHER

MENLO PARK, Calif., Sept. 16.—(UP)—Sixteen-year old Edward Cleveland was held in jail here today while authorities investigated his story that he shot and killed his father, William Lauderback, for beating the youth's mother.

Lauderback, a local carpenter, died almost instantly last night from a rifle bullet wound in the heart.

The boy told police he became infuriated when his stepfather came home late at night in an intoxicated condition and began beating Mrs. Lauderback with his fists. Obtaining a .22 calibre rifle in an adjoining room, the youth said he fired one shot.

Mrs. Lauderback confirmed the story told by her son.

WILMINGTON, Ill., Sept. 16.—(UP)—Picketing of the Northern Illinois Coal Co., strip mine here where three men were wounded yesterday was prevented today by a force of 55 state highway police and 40 sheriff's deputies.

The officers who responded to a call from mine and local union officers for aid were employed about the 8000 acre mine tract and forced 1500 pickets who appeared to move on without halting.

LEGIONNAIRES RETURNING TO HOMES TODAY

DEMAND CASH BONUS AND REPEAL OF 18TH AMENDMENT ON FINAL DAY

PORTLAND, Ore., Sept. 16.—(UP)—Two major objectives—immediate cash payment of the soldier's bonus and repeal of all prohibition laws—today lay before 50,000 fighting men of the American Legion as they turned homeward from their national convention here.

Led by Louis A. Johnson of Clarkburg, W. Va., the new national commander chosen by acclamation, the Legionnaires were pledged to work in every possible way for the fulfillment of these two ends.

Huge majorities were rolled up behind resolutions voicing the demands for the bonus and for repeal—but an equally overwhelming tide was turned against the move to draw the Legion into a condemnation of the national administration for eviction of the bonus army from the nation's capital.

The closing session of the convention voted 1167 to 109 a resolution asking immediate cash payment of the $2,400,000,000 soldier bonus.

The 1289 delegates, instructed representatives of the million Legionnaires of the nation, were almost as emphatic in demanding outright repeal of the federal prohibition laws and submission of

UNITED STATES EXPORTS SHOW FINE INCREASE

NATION HAS FAVORABLE BALANCE OF $18,000,000 DURING AUGUST

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16.—(UP)—United States exports increased $2,158,000 during August as compared with July, the commerce department reported today. Imports increased $11,580,000 in comparison with the previous month.

Total August exports were $109,000,000 against $164,808,000 in August last year. Imports were $91,000,000 against $106,789,000.

Exports during August brought the total of United States export trade for the first eight months this year to $1,056,795,000, compared with $1,661,547,000 in the same period last year. Imports this year have totaled $917,105,000, compared with $1,448,290,000.

For the month of August the United States had a favorable balance of trade of $18,000,000, representing an excess of exports over imports.

Commerce department officials said the increase in export trade was partially due to heavy shipments of cotton, which were valued at $18,112,908 in August against $15,853,838 in July.

The increase in imports was held to be a possible reflection of a better sentiment in manufacturing industries and an increase in national purchasing power.

WIFE OF MURDERER SEEKING JUDGMENT

FRESNO, Cal., Sept. 16.—(UP)—The estranged wife of a convicted murderer today had on file in superior court a lawsuit against the estate of the man he killed.

Mrs. Marjorie L. Fuller, wife of W. A. (Al) Fuller, sought judgment for $447.50 against the estate of James W. Kipp, alleging that the amount was due her for personal services.

It was Mrs. Fuller's information to sheriff's officers that her husband had threatened to kill Kipp, his partner in a store at Seville, Tulare county, that led to the discovery that Kipp was missing. His body subsequently was found in an abandoned mine shaft in Madera county and Fuller tried for the slaying.

He was convicted.

NANKING, Sept. 17.—(UP)—(Saturday)—Charges of violating international law treaties in recognizing the new Manchukuo government were contained in a lengthy note from the foreign office here today to the Japanese government.

A bitter attack on the action of timing the recognition to precede consideration of Lord Lytton's report to the league of nations was made in the message.

Witnesses called to testify at the inquest include Edward J. Sullivan, San Francisco hotel clerk who yesterday identified the body, and J. Lee, deck watchman of the river steamer, Henry Bern, brother of the dead film producer, will not be summoned, but there is a possibility he may appear of his own volition, the coroner said.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

BEVERLY HILLS, Sept. 16.—(To the Editor of The Register): Roosevelt got into the farm relief business yesterday. They all do. Now nobody can promise the farmer whether his wheat will sell for a nickel, or a dollar. Supply and demand, and not a political speaker, determines that. The only relief you can give the farmer is through his taxes. Work it like income tax, if he makes it he pays on it, and if he doesn't make it he doesn't pay. A thousand shares of stocks or bonds make nothing you pay nothing, but a thousand acres of land, you pay enough to support half the community who own no land and pay no taxes. But the farmer will spend the rest of the fall just running from one sneaker's platform to another listening to schemes to relieve him of nothing but his vote.

Yours,
WILL ROGERS.

BATTLESHIP RUSHES OFFICER TO PEDRO

SAN PEDRO, Calif., Sept. 16.—(UP)—Racing against time, with the life of Vice Admiral Joel R. P. Pringle at stake, the battleship West Virginia sped southward today under forced draught from Port Angeles, Wash., to San Pedro.

Specialists were to meet the vessel, due here at 6 p. m. tomorrow, to attend Admiral Pringle, critically ill with a bladder ailment. Plans were made for an emergency operation either at Long Beach or San Diego.

Admiral Pringle suffered a sudden relapse in the north, and the navy department issued special orders so he might be rushed here and receive the attention of specialists familiar with his case. He was said to be too ill to travel by airplane.

The 15th amendment to the states for a repeal vote.

Ballooning on the prohibition question brought 1145 years and 233 days.

The census resolution sponsored by Pennsylvania's instructed delegation never reached the floor of the session. Not a single voice was raised to aid the Pennsylvania delegate, George Brown of Thilthoven, in his effort to have the census report brought out of the resolutions committee.

So conclusive was the attitude of the convention, the Pennsylvania delegates abandoned their plan to ask for a suspension of the rules in order to bring their census resolution before the delegates.

The resolution endorsed by a non-record vote a motion by Harry Arthur, South Carolina department commander, criticizing the War Department for distributing at the convention franked envelopes containing a defense of the bonus army eviction written by Secretary of War Patrick J. Hurley.

The Legion defeated an attempt by the New York delegation to urge from the floor adherence to the World Court under the Root formula, after first approving a resolution against adherence.

James F. Barton of Indianapolis, Ind., will continue to act as national adjutant until the next meeting of the executive committee, scheduled for November 14-15 at Indianapolis.

Johnson said he had not decided upon a successor to Barton, who will resign to become business manager of the magazine, American Legion Monthly.

The thief entered the house through a living room window and was heard leaving by one of the sisters who awakened.

ANNOUNCE DUTIES ON CHINESE GOODS

CHANGCHUN, Manchukuo, Sept. 16.—(UP)—Less than 24 hours after it was recognized by Japan as an independent nation, Manchukuo announced today export and import duties on Chinese goods.

The taxes will become effective Sept. 25, the announcement said. Manchukuo customs houses will be established at Shanhaiwan, located at the great wall between China proper and Manchuria, and at other important ports of entry.

Although she no longer recognizes herself as a part of China, the Manchukuo government announced it would continue to remit Manchuria's share for payment of China's foreign debt, which is guaranteed by the maritime customs. The government said 1,141,000 yen had been sent to the Chinese government at Nanking for this purpose.

SHANGHAI, Sept. 16.—(UP)—Although China received news of the formal recognition yesterday of Manchukuo by Japan with outward calm, extra precautions were taken today against possible outbreaks here Sunday, which will be the first anniversary of Japan's invasion of Manchuria.

FARM BUREAU LEGISLATION DISCUSSED BY WASHINGTON DIRECTOR AT ORANGE MEET

and south were disconsolate and headed toward grave disaster. The Farm Bureau at that time worked to avert agricultural distress. As agriculture goes down the nation follows the same course. The desired legislation was ignored and as a result we have depression. Five years ago the western coast doubted the depression, now there is no doubt. No one great group like the farm group can be reduced in purchasing power without affecting the nation as a whole. Add to the agricultural group the labor group whose purchasing power invariably follows the purchasing power of the farmer and to this add the 15 million whose only income is stocks and bonds and whose incomes were dissipated in the recent crash and you have the purchasing power of the largest sector of the nation retarded and the whole nation feels it."

Congress ignores Congress, he said, had ignored the commonplace things which led up to the depression and had only taken cognizance of the conditions when it became spectacular, then began working on the effects rather than on the cause. Credit had been used to aid in the depression said the speaker, and if credit is shot into the arm of economics, it will sky rocket prices but when prices are down it is doubtful if credit is strong enough to start prices on the upward grade. The credit type of legislation, he said, may be of great help temporarily but it cannot be expected to be of permanent aid.

"It is common preaching," said Gray, "that American farmers as a mass should bring down production to the domestic market. This inevitably will lead the producer to a place where he will have to compete with the foreign market. The danger of limiting production is the danger of free trade. If unforeseen climatic conditions should arise when the production of wheat was limited and the supply further lessened, the people would not go hungry, for they would demand wheat from Canada or Australia. The tariff laws would be broken down and wheat would pour in. If the walls were once down they never would go up in a nation which is 75 per cent industrial and 25 per cent agricultural."

"Agriculture is advised to forget the foreign market which is sought by industry, when this theory is put in practice with industry it will be time to put it in practice in agriculture."

Marketing Act In discussing the marketing act which he said had been passed to control surpluses, Gray said the act had been imposed on agriculture because congress would not accept the farm bureau for controlling surplus production. He explained the working of equalization fee and the debenture plan and declared that the farm board should have the power to use either as the same plan will not work under varied conditions. The equalization fee is collected at terminal points of trade he said and comes from the processor and not from the consumer or producer but is collected as the tobacco tax is collected.

The importance of the Philippine islands in relation to prices in the United States was one of the most stressed points in Gray's talk. He gave facts showing that the shipments of copra and coconut oil from the islands free from tariff, displace every animal and vegetable oil American farmers produce.

"The sugar industry is suffering from the same source, and also by imports from Cuba duty free," Gray stated. "Only one-fourth of the sugar used is produced here. If the sugar industry could be expanded the land now used for wheat and potatoes could be used for raising sugar cane and beets and this would help care for the surplus of these commodities. Rice and tobacco are in the same position."

Gray called attention to the fact that the Philippine islands were not territorial possessions and that they never would become states as would Alaska and the Hawaiian islands. The Philippines had been promised their freedom at the time of the Spanish-American war and should be given it within the next five years, he declared. The people of the islands themselves are not free trade with the United States as they realize in time they will be bound by such strong commercial bonds to this country that they can never separate from it, said the speaker. The prosperity of the Philippines and Cuba has come to them with lessened prosperity in the United States.

Tariff Breaches The two breaches in the tariff wall which Gray said should be closed are the Philippine and Cuba free trade and the lack of tariff on substitute crops which cannot be produced here but which compete with our crops, such as bananas with apples.

"In the last 6000 years of history it has been found that when an agricultural nation becomes an industrial nation, agriculture goes down and agriculturists have been forced to feed and shelter home people in competition with the whole world. The American farmer must be warned by history and must hold to the protection he has and strengthen and build higher the wall around him. If the farmer this year accomplishes this he will show the world something which has not been done throughout the ages."

"When the government found itself two billions of dollars in the red, one method of balancing the budget was to reduce cost of federal government. Further reductions are to be made this year. The claim is going out over the nation making it appear that agriculture gets all of the benefits. We must watch to see that reductions in the agriculture department are comparable with other great departments."

"The other way to reduce government expenses is by raising taxes. Taxes have been raised by gasoline, postage, luxury and check taxes. The methods of raising taxes is 90 per cent pleasing to the Farm Bureau Federation. The sales tax was not approved because it was not based on the ability to pay but on the necessity to buy. The consumer is always the group of people who own general property, and the years past, that sometimes lasted all night.

The only semblance of a contest was in the Republican party, where delegates were bombarded with telegrams from Leo V. Youngworth, recently defeated for the party nomination for United States senator, saying he would be a candidate for State Central committee chairman.

Friends of Louis B. Mayer, Los Angeles motion picture magnate, immediately got busy with petitions demanding his election, which were signed by virtually all state officials, and leaders of the party.

Among the signers were Governor Ralph, Lieutenant Governor Frank F. Merriam, Assemblyman Walter J. Little, Santa Monica, who is slated to be the next speaker of the assembly; Senator J. W. McKinley, Los Angeles, State Treasurer Charles G. Johnson, State Controller Ray L. Riley and party nominees for congress and the state legislature.

Conventions this year attracted wide public interest than usual, due to the presence of several nationally known figures in the Democratic party.

These were William Gibbs McAdoo, candidate for United States senator from California; Josephus Daniels, secretary of the navy under President Wilson, and Mayor James Curley of Boston.

Only a few clashes marked the party deliberations.

Avery C. Moore of Berkeley was turned down when he tried to put through a resolution in the Democratic party censuring Governor Ralph for "indifference and extravagance."

Both party platforms praised their presidential nominees and endorsed all party candidates. In addition, the Republican platform pledged nominees to support protective tariff, particularly in oil, favored federal aid to existing irrigation districts, favored reduction of state, city and county taxes in any form.

The Democratic platform urged reciprocal trade agreements to increase foreign trade and move California fruits and vegetables; favored amendments in the tariff act to equalize protection to farm products and industry; advocated amending the direct primary law prohibiting any person running for office on more than one ticket; favored shorter working day and week; condemned President Hoover for using troops to disperse the bonus army, and recommended laws eliminating the "pyramiding" of penalties for delinquent taxes.

Upton Sinclair, noted author, was named to head the Socialist presidential electors. R. W. Henderson of Kern county was elected chairman of the Socialist party, J. C. Bell of Los Angeles was chosen to preside over the Prohibitionists, and Peter J. Wilkie of Sacramento was made chairman of the Liberty party.

The 22 presidential electors chosen to cast California's vote for president for the two major parties are as follows:

Republican (Hoover-Curtis) — Carlos S. Stanley, Monterey; Mrs. Joseph I. Lawless, Harry A. Milton, Richard M. Tobin, Mrs. Max Sloss, all of San Francisco; Herbert Kerrigan, Petaluma; Mrs. Ruth Comfort, Mitchell Young, Los Gatos; Hugh McNulty, Fresno; Dr. John F. Slavich, Oakland; Former Governor George C. IOWA STRIKERS AMBUSH GROUP OF DEPUTIES to the sheriff and County Attorney Pritchard who told him of a meeting of business men here last night to protest the blockading. The governor talked to newspapermen there.

Turner said he still hoped to settle the matter without resorting to the use of militia and announced he planned to confer with Davenport again later today.

Approximately 200 businessmen attended the protest meeting last night at which speakers declared the blockades on Sioux City highways have cost the city thousands of dollars daily in lost trade.

City officials went to Des Moines this week and conferred with Turner bringing back a plan for ridding the highways of pickets by combined use of county and city officers. The campaign was only well started, however, when Davenport evidently decided it was too much of a job for local authorities.

Picketing has been going on intensively since a meeting of mid-western governors here last week end at which various farm relief plans were endorsed but an official embargo on farm products, sought by farm holiday men, refused.

A meeting of the executive committee of the holiday association is scheduled here Sunday at which the future course of the farm strike will be determined. Tentative plans call for its resumption Sept. 21.

The picketing now in progress is independent of the strike leaders.

W. Jones Pleads Guilty to Charge

Warren Jones, 39, a sheet metal worker, of 406 Porter street, Santa Ana, pleaded guilty to a charge of non-support of a minor child in Judge Kenneth Morrison's court today and was given a year's suspended sentence.

The sentence was suspended on condition the man make monthly payments of $25 to his family, starting October 15.

Jones was arrested on a warrant by sheriff's officers yesterday afternoon.

Woman and Liquor Seized In Raid

Santa Ana police officers last night raided the home of Lucy Vargas, 26, of 1801 West Second street, seizing her and 36 quarts of beer, they reported.

The woman was booked at the county jail on a charge of possession of liquor. A number of pieces of equipment for the making of beer also was confiscated by the officers.

Sergeant C. V. Adams and Officers L. H. Barnhard and W. H. Heard made the raid.

UNCOVER PLOT IN LETTERS MAILED HERE

Tentacles of what is said to be a nation-wide Communist plot to shake the confidence of the people in banks and other financial institutions have reached into Orange county, according to information secured here today.

Letters advising that funds be withdrawn from banks have been mailed from Santa Ana and some of the letters have been turned over to authorities.

Use of the United States mails in spreading false rumors against the banks has resulted in a double investigation being launched here with the probability that the Post Office department will start a third.

Three letters mailed in Santa Ana were received yesterday in Anaheim by bank depositors and turned over to the authorities. Similar letters have been mailed in the Los Angeles metropolitan area and have already reached the hands of investigators working under direction of United States Attorney McNabb in an investigation of the alleged plot.

These letters consist of a type-written slip bearing a two-line message hinting that it would be wise to withdraw money from "your bank." The message appears in the center of a folded piece of blank paper and is mailed in a government stamped envelope.

McNabb in a statement today urged that persons receiving such notes turn them over to their local banker or to his office, handling the notes as little as possible in order that fingerprint clues might be obtained.

The spread of the plot from Los Angeles to Orange county, according to McNabb, is a part of the Communist program that calls for similar letter-writing campaigns to be conducted in other parts of California and in Oregon, Nevada, Arizona, and Utah.

Several weeks ago federal investigators arrested three men in the east and confiscated correspondence that revealed a similar plot had been conducted in the East and had spread from New York to Chicago.

In a statement issued today from the office of District Attorney Sam L. Collins it was said that that office is cooperating with United States Attorney McNabb in investigation of the plot and is also conducting an investigation of its own into other phases of the spreading of "red" propaganda in this county.

Need Double Cannon for Legion Twins

The Santa Ana post of the American Legion is looking for a "double barreled" cannon.

The cannon the post uses to decorate the lawn of veterans where the stork has stopped does not seem adequate for J. Ogden Markel, as Markel in the father of twin girls born recently.

The cannon was moved there yesterday, nevertheless, from the lawn of Dr. Dexter Ball, who by the way, was the physician in the Markel case. "Maybe we'll leave it there twice as long," said one Legionnaire.

APPROVE PLANS FOR SANTA ANA FALL JUBILEE

The opening gun in the war against depression which has been declared by merchants of the city through the merchants division of the chamber of commerce, was fired at a meeting of business and professional men and women held at the Santa Ana cafe last night.

Definite plans were made and approved for the mammoth Fall Business Jubilee, to be held in Santa Ana on October 6, 7 and 8, which is expected to banish the thoughts of depression from the minds of thousands of shoppers who are expected to be attracted to the merchandising event.

H. E. Willard, chairman of the merchants division, introduced the speakers and presided over the meeting.

H. P. Rankin was the first speaker on the program. He explained the merchandising plans for the event. "Merchandise," he said, "properly displayed, properly priced and above all, properly advertised, will pull business."

"Forward to Prosperity"

"The object of the Fall Business Jubilee is to establish customer confidence in the reliability of merchants of Santa Ana. We expect to pull 50,000 buyers from all over the county during the three days of the event. We will look forward for prosperity; the distress is behind us. We will lead the customers around the much-discussed corner. We have reached a point of stability in commodity price. Prices are even climbing."

A definite feeling of optimism was in evidence at the meeting. All merchants and others who spoke expressed the opinion that the worst part of the depression has left the nation and that this is a period of readjustment which will lead on to better times.

Del Davenport gave those present an outline of the program for the jubilee. "The sole object of the jubilee," he declared, is to attract people here from the Santa Ana trade territory. We have brought showmanship into merchandising. We will try to entertain the crowds that come here so they will say they have enjoyed our hospitality.

"A legitimate wedding at a local theater will be an added attraction and has already caused wide comment. The couple will be given gifts by local merchants."

Include Parade
"A parade will be staged with many bands and other features to attract attention. The grand climax of the event will be the cremation of Old Man Depression in effigy."

James Harding told something of the merchants division organization. He said that the division expected to accomplish much good through cooperation among the merchants. He suggested that merchants put new articles in their windows and hold an unveiling ceremony. He declared it

POST CARD MYSTERY SOLVED TODAY BY AMATEUR SLEUTHS

Officials of the chamber of commerce solved a mystery today.

They were puzzled today, when post office employees advised them that there were a large number of cards, all alike, for the chamber of commerce, and that there was two cents postage due on each one of them.

The chamber of commerce heads were puzzled because they knew they had sent no cards out recently, and an investigation was launched. The amateur sleuths, headed by Lenabelle Hughes, secretary to George Raymer, chamber secretary, soon solved the mystery.

It seems that before work on enlarging the Olive street bowl was started, the chamber sent out a number of cards asking citizens of the city whether they thought it was a good idea to enlarge the bowl, to construct a city park and to vote bonds for the project.

Some 2000 of these cards, the postage on which was to be redressed by the chamber if they were returned, were left over and not used. They laid around the office so long that they were thrown out in the trash box.

Some young boys, it is believed, found the cards and took the pains to distribute great numbers of them throughout the city, and persons that received them immediately began to send them back to the chamber of commerce, with their opinions plainly expressed on the cards.

Many of those that returned the cards evidently did not know the bowl had been enlarged, for they advised that they did not believe this was a good time to start any improvement work, much less float bonds.

And so the post office was ordered to cease delivering the cards to the chamber of commerce to avoid the unnecessary expense of paying out the postage to get the people's ideas on a matter that has been settled for some time.

SUSPECT HELD FOR ALLEGED BILL RAISING

Booked at the county jail on suspicion of committing a felony, sheriff's officers were today investigating Basilio Villosenor, 36, Stanton Mexican, as an alleged counterfeiter.

The man was arrested last night at his home by Under-Sheriff C. W. Riggles and Deputies Art Ellis and Ed Perry, after he is asserted to have confessed that he passed a raised $1 bill.

Villosenor appeared at the office of the Anaheim gas company on September 14, at which time he tendered a $10 bill in payment for his gas bill. Clerks in the office noticed that the bill had been raised from a $1 bill. The man is asserted to have hurriedly pocketed the bill and paid for his gas with another bill.

The sheriff's office was notified. Last night Villosenor was questioned and is said to have admitted that the same day he did pass the $10 bill at the service station operated by L. Peacock.

TWO SENT TO SAN QUENTIN; WIFE FAINTS

With a total of 13 "hold" orders from other police departments in the state filed against them at the county jail, Harry Roberts and Harry Walker, recently found guilty of grand theft in connection with the sale of mining stock, today were denied probation by Superior Judge G. K. Scovel. Both men were sentenced to San Quentin prison for terms of from one to 10 years as prescribed by law.

When Roberts received his sentence his wife, who was in court with the couple's four young sons, burst into tears and collapsed as she attempted to leave the courtroom. She was removed to a rest room where restoratives were administered.

In routine questioning prior to passing sentence upon the pair the court was informed that Walker is a veteran of the Spanish-American war and the Philippine insurrection and that during the World war he served in the British army. Roberts served in the United States army during the World war.

Roberts, testifying in his probation hearing, said that he had made an effort to deliver the mining stock sold to Charles D. Harrison and others and that if given probation either would deliver the stock or make restitution to those who had purchased securities through operation of himself and associates.

He admitted having passed worthless checks in Glendale and said that he is wanted in Ventura county over an alleged violation of the corporation securities act. He did not know, however, that there were eight "holds" against him on file at the county jail.

Walker, with five "holds" filed against him, asked to make a statement for the records after having been denied probation. The permission granted he denied conspiracy accusations by declaring that he never had met A. J. Cronin, who recently pleaded guilty to a similar charge and turned state's evidence prior to the stock sale to Hatfield, for which he and Roberts were convicted. He also said that Cronin had authorized the use of his name by Roberts in dealings here and elsewhere.

National Commander William Conley's message relating to the veteran situation, plans for a veteran situation, plans for an intensive membership campaign and an national traveler were highlights of the gathering of disabled veterans at the Legion clubhouse Wednesday evening under the auspices of Jack Fisher chapter, Disabled American Veterans of the World War.

Jules Markel, local membership chairman, launched an intensive drive by securing a large committee which will enable a personal contact of the many hundreds of veterans in Orange county who are eligible to the D.A.V. organization. "By concerted action in a swift, intensive campaign we feel confident of at least a 50 percent increase over last year's record mark," Markel stated.

NEW STUDENTS GUESTS AT TEA IN FULLERTON

FULLERTON, Sept. 16.—New women students of Fullerton District Junior College were welcomed into the social life of the school yesterday afternoon by the upper classmen when they were guests of honor at a reception and tea at the Ebell clubhouse, given by the Associated Women Students. Those attending were received into an atmosphere that was a duplication of an old fashioned garden and were met at the door by Miss Peggy Prizer, who was dressed in a pink taffeta colonial dress and who handed each guest a flower from a large basket she carried on her arm. Others on the receiving line were Miss Neva Gerdes, Garden Grove, president; Miss Vera Hoke, Bellflower, vice president, and Miss Alma Clarke, Fullerton, secretary-treasurer, and by Mrs. Esther Litchfield, dean of women and advisor of the A. W. S. After the program consisting of a solo, "An Old Fashioned Garden," by Miss Prizer, and a Minuet, danced by Miss Clarke and Miss Anna Lupton, and a too dance by Miss Maddox, of Los Angeles, refreshments were served by 12 girls, dressed in pastel shades of organdy.

The 250 women found their places at table by matching the flowers received at the door with those at the places at the tables.

Reading Club In Session Monday

FULLERTON, Sept. 16.—The first fall meeting of the Fullerton Monday Afternoon Reading club is scheduled for 1 o'clock September 19 at the home of Miss Laura Porter, West Orangehorpe avenue, with Mrs. Earl S. Dysinger presiding.

The program will include a review of "The Fountain" (Morgan), given by Mrs. Charles E. Fuller. Mrs. S. C. Hartman will review "The Flight of the Last Petrel" and Miss Porter will talk on "What We Are About to Receive."

NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

News Behind the News

WASHINGTON
By Paul Mallon

MAINE

Republicans in Maine were sore and took it out on President Hoover.

That is the whole bottom of the political eruption Down East from the best non-partisan sources. Prohibition had little to do with it.

The Republican campaign was conducted under auspices more favorable than those prevailing in nearly any other sector. Republican candidates were popular men. Their Democratic opponents were largely unknowns. The best national Republican orators were used—Treasury Secretary Miller, Under Secretary Jahncke, Dolly Gann.

Yet there is no question that the Republican votes elected the Democratic candidate. The answer is obvious.

A terribly depressing effect was wrought on the Republican high command. Mr. Hoover took it hard. He had reason to expect a better result. His confidential reports indicated the Republicans would lose one Congressional seat. He thought everything else would be held.

Callers at the White House the day after remarked on his attitude. He looked as if he had worried much. His outward spirit was strong, almost belligerent.

Other party men were just as surprised but took it less to heart. Vice President Curtis privately thought it might have a good effect. He was among those who felt the campaign organization needed a jolt to start it going.

SPEECHES

Mr. Hoover told a personal friend a year ago that he would make no more than two speeches in this campaign. The friend expressed amazement. The president claimed Cleveland made but one speech in one of his campaigns. Mr. Hoover is a great private admirer of Cleveland.

However he will make more than two speeches now. Situations alter cases.

Democrats are jubilantly whispering that Al will make a speech in Boston shortly for Roosevelt.

They claim Smith also has offered to make two more speeches if necessary. One has been tentatively scheduled for New Jersey. Hoes Hague is quoted as saying this situation there is so good Smith may not be needed. Hague thinks he will elect Democratic county officers in counties where he never had any before.

WINNERS

Roosevelt's improved chances are automatically clearing up a bad inside situation. The bandwagon boys are beginning to hop on. The machines which did not care for him are getting more enthusiastic now. The prospect of patronage is one thing that makes their mouths water.

COMMODITIES

A reaction in commodity prices has been expected here. They follow the stock market somewhat. The drop in Wall Street should be followed by a smaller drop out through the country.

That is a beneficial sign. It is better that things should not go along as fast as they have been going. Stock prices were obviously on better ground at lower levels.

Some good news should start the wheels moving upward again before long. It may center around expected steel developments.

Confidential government reports early in the week indicated price levels had risen 9 per cent since May 28; silk up 83 per cent; cotton 58 per cent; hides 87 per cent; sugar 22 per cent; corn 3 per cent; silver bars 27 per cent.

CROWDS

Dolly Gann, the Mrs. Cicero of the campaign, had an unpleasant experience in Maine. Her mass meeting drew a crowd of 800. The next night Gene Tunney drew 6000.

The local leader's explanation that "the 6000 just turned out to see a celebrity" was too ambiguous to be acceptable to Mrs. Gann. She is considered a celebrity in Kansas.

MILLS

The higher-ups are well pleased with Treasury Secretary Mills' activity on the stump. They are a little sour on War Secretary Hurley. Mills will do the administration's high powered orating from now on.

NOTES

Young Teddy Roosevelt has sent all his friends in the United States a copy of his first message to the Philippine legislature. . . . It cost him something. . . . He has his eye on the vice-presidential nomination in 1936. . . . Republicans will have to turn over less than 1000 votes to change the result of the Maine election in November. . . . They think they can do that. . . . The psychological effect is the worst of the gubernatorial results. . . . The degree of the Republican protest vote is what is significant. . . . You will have to keep Maine in the doubtful column of your November tabulation for a while yet.

NEW YORK

By James McMullin

MAINE

The Maine election was a shocking surprise to Republican headquarters here. They had anticipated a fairly narrow squeeze but no one expected a complete upset. Those who thought the wisest course was to sit back and wait for the Democrats to make mistakes are out of luck. Several leaders privately admit that the case against inaction is now proven.

The worst angle of the situation from the Republican viewpoint is that only four states have shown a higher average Republican percentage than Maine in the last 20 years. This makes the shift look still more devastating. The four states referred to are Kansas, Michigan, Pennsylvania and Vermont.

Republican wets are making the most of the situation. They claim that the dryness of the party's candidates had a lot to do with the defeat. . . .

LEHMAN

An indirect result of the Maine election will be to strengthen Lehman's candidacy for Governor of New York. Tammany's opposition to him has been chiefly based on the fact that he is close to Roosevelt and anti-Roosevelt words and gestures are apt to be soft-pedaled considerably.

SMITH

Alfred E. Smith's article in the current Saturday Evening Post turned out to be even more neutral than the Democrats had feared (see this column Sept. 8th). Instead of backing the Democratic cause, however faintly, Smith turned his guns on the cash payment of the bonus in a manner which is distinctly more helpful to Hoover than to Roosevelt. Roosevelt's supporters here claim they do not care what Smith does since the Maine returns came in.

R. F. C.

The R. F. C.'s refusal to loan more than five million dollars to the Nickel Plate Railroad to meet its twenty million dollar maturities due October 1st was bad news to a crowd of wise guys who had bought the bonds on prospects of redemption. This may bring complications. Plans whereby the road is to pay 25 per cent in cash and the balance in refunding bonds are likely to be blocked by peevish speculators. A receivership is by no means impossible.

General Wall Street comment is favorable to the R. F. C. for holding down the amount of the loan. The only criticism is the query as to why the Nickel Plate rated an advance at all.

SIDELIGHTS

Jim Farley has adapted an old Coolidge slogan for his own use. A prominent sign in the Baltimore headquarters reads "Keep cool, calm and collected." . . . The Democrats don't think the official Republican slogan—"Who but Hoover" is so hot. . . . Their answer is "Anyone." . . . Some of the Republican back seat youngsters at the Waldorf are not entirely unhappy about Maine. They have been chafing for action and now they hope to out in front.

Archbishops and bishops of the established church are permitted seats in the British House of Lords.

Isa Lake, in Yellowstone National Park, sends some of its waters to the Atlantic and some to the Pacific.

COMMITTEES FOR LEGION APPOINTED

GARDEN GROVE, Sept. 16.—The first meeting of the Garden Grove American Legion post since the installation of new officers was held in the Legion hall Wednesday evening, with Fred R. Dukas, presiding.

The next meeting will be a pot-luck dinner at 6:30 o'clock on September 28 in honor of the gold star mothers and especially Mrs. Emily Watson who is returning from France where she visited the grave of her son. The public is invited to attend.

The president appointed the following committees: Community betterment, L. A. Frink, Irvine German, disaster, O. D. Peckham; legislative, W. W. Walker; membership, Claire McConnell, C. Laughlin, K. Takenaga; publicity, D. B. Baldwin; scout, J. Estep, Fred Hunter, Felix Hebestreit; service officers, W. W. Walker; inter-post relations, R. R. Rossetti, Ben Lieberman; sick benefit, Herman Thorpe; auditing, Ray Solter, Wesley Lamb.

Reports Slated At Joint Session Of Farm Centers

YORBA LINDA, Sept. 16.—At a joint meeting of the Yorba Linda and Placentia Farm centers Monday at the Yorba Linda Women's clubhouse and starting at 6:30 p. m. with a pot luck dinner, reports of committees will be heard and John C. Tuffrey, of Placentia, will show some recently made pictures of Central America.

Phil H. Damon and W. S. Ingham, representing Yorba Linda and Placentia centers, will report on the citrus department of the Orange County Farm bureau.

Ralph McFadden will report on water conservation and George Kellogg on the membership committee work.

Music will be provided by the Crusader male octet of the St. Andrew Episcopal church, of Fullerton, led by Gordon Drew.

NEW TEAR GAS BOMB
BALTIMORE—The government's chemical Warfare Service, at Englewood Arsenal near here, has developed a new tear gas bomb that is much more effective than the old one. It incapacitates a victim in 24 seconds, whereas the old type took four minutes to take effect. Chicago has added the new bomb to its police equipment.

MORE LEADERS IN CHEST DRIVE NAMED TODAY

With four more key positions in the volunteer organization for the Community Chest appeal accepted, the project to raise $100,000 for welfare, relief and social service work in Santa Ana is making rapid strides in the plan to complete organization and portions of the subscription program in advance of the intensive campaign, it was announced today by W. J. Tway, general chairman.

A. N. Zerman, Chest board member and chairman of the committee which drew up the welfare and social service budget this year and A. L. McElhinny, treasurer of the chest, both have been named to serve on the important campaign executive committee. Mrs. F. E. Coulter has accepted appointment to the vice chairmanship of the advance gifts committee. Miss Mabel McFadden will take the responsibility for the organization and direction of the intensive campaign which opens on October 15.

"The appointment of these will mean a great deal to the success of the coming appeal," says Tway. "All of them are outstanding citizens who have worked hard and successfully for those welfare, relief and other social service organizations represented through the Community Chest."

By virtue of their appointment, both Miss McFadden and Mrs. Coulter will serve on the policy-making executive committee, along with the general chairman, two vice chairmen and heads of the other major departments in the campaign.

In accepting the vice chairmanship of the advance gifts committee, Mrs. Coulter has taken a responsibility new to women in Santa Ana Community Chest campaigns, Tway points out. At the same time Miss McFadden as chairman of the residential department this year, will hold a much enlarged responsibility in the campaign success, as against that of former years for the department.

GIVES EXPLANATION OF WORK OF GOODWILL INDUSTRIES; ASKS PUBLIC COOPERATION

Declaring that the success, in a large measure, of Santa Ana Goodwill Industries during its past history, has been due to the loyal support and hearty sympathy of the public, reminding the public of ways it can serve, and telling of accomplishments of the past, the following open letter was addressed to friends of the Goodwill Industries today by John Winterbourne, superintendent.

"To your loyal support and hearty sympathy has been due, in a large measure, the success of the local Goodwill during its past history, and particularly in the past two years of distress due to the economic situation.

"The Goodwill has suffered from the depression as have other industries. A very natural falling off in the amount and character of orders, and a very great reduction in the buying power of the needy people due to the general unemployment, together with an ever-present plea on the part of our citizenry for employment, have taxed the resources of the institution even beyond the limit of good judgment. Today the Orange County Goodwill has assumed obligations which can only be justified by the optimistic view of the future which characterizes the board of directors.

Many Employed
"During the past year 25,000 customers unable to buy elsewhere have purchased about 50,000 garments and articles, the price of these articles ranging from five cents each to pieces of furniture and suits of clothes at several dollars, and an average of 20 to 22 local people have found steady employment in the plant proper, while during the winter months from 25 to 30 unemployed men daily were furnished employment at wood cutting at a wage of $2 per day plus 33 cents per day compensation insurance.

"In all, during the past year about $12,000 has been paid out in wages to the unemployed. Santa Ana while added to this has been about $6000 for rent, water, light, heat, trucks, etc., all the outcome of the Goodwill bags and Goodwill offerings from the loyal friends of the institution. No campaign for money has been made during the eight year's history of the Santa Ana branch of Goodwill. This service has been salvaged from the generous donations of castoffs.

Change Made
"From the beginning up to the present time this work has been carried on under the supervision of the Goodwill Industries of Southern California, of which the local unit has been a branch, and while theoretically the branch was self supporting, the parent institution rendered such help and supervision as any true parent extends to his offspring. The Goodwill Industries of Southern California has been a loyal and generous parent to the local unit.

"However, the day of majority has come, and by mutual consent the youth steps out into the world of service to take an independent place. The Goodwill Industries of Orange County was organized, with the following officers: T. E. Stephenson, president; the Rev. George Warner, vice president; W. A. Taylor, treasurer; Mrs. M. B. King, secretary; the Rev. John Winterbourne, superintendent and executive manager, and M. E. Youel, chairman of the standing committee on building and locations. To this executive board were added as directors, Alex. Brownridge, Martin Warren, Samuel Vogt, J. W. Estes, B. V. Curry, the Rev. O. W. Reinus, J. A. Cranston, Ralph Smedley, F. H. Blair, the Rev. C. M. Aker and the Rev. P. F. Schrock.

"The Orange County Goodwill Industries is purely a welfare institution—non-profit, non-participating. The members of the board of directors give of their time and interest without compensation and freely in the interests of the unfortunate and needy of Orange county.

"The Goodwill is not a charity organization—rather the purpose is to help the needy and handicapped to stand on their own feet and feed and clothe themselves. 'Not Charity but a Chance' covers the scope of their activities. Gray hairs, unsteady step, empty elbow or crutches serve as a recommendation for the applicant for labor; not to men who are in demand in the business world, but to men and women to whom the door of opportunity is closed, do the doors of the Goodwill swing open.

Donations Aid Employment
"Unfortunately, even this service has its limitations. The only source of income with which these wages and expenses can be met is the sale of goods from the Goodwill stores. If $18,000 to $20,000 is paid out each year for wages and incidental expenses, that same amount must come in over the counters of the stores. If the income were many times what it has been, many more unfortunate could be given employment. One of the most trying experiences of the executive is to hear the stories of need and the appeal for a job—any job—and be compelled to turn the applicant away because of lack of money with which to pay the wages after the work is done.

"If the good people of Orange county will bear in mind that every time they send in a discarded Goodwill bag or some broken piece of furniture, or purchase some reconditioned article from the Goodwill store, they are giving employment and wages to some needy citizen of the county, the generous response will be many times greater than in the past. Remember—hungry and ill-clad men, women and children are depending on your hearty support of this Orange county benevolent organization.

"The perfect confidence of the public is desired, and a perfect frankness concerning the activities of the Goodwill is our concern. Wherever there is any question concerning the operation of this organization, a thorough investigation is invited. The executive will gladly take the time necessary to show anyone interested through the entire plant, show the books and answer any inquiry relating to the work. The Goodwill of Orange county is planning a larger and more comprehensive program for the days just ahead, and it is sincerely hoped that each reader of this article will have a part in the worthwhile effort to relieve the distress and suffering of the needy ones through this agency."

Need For Co-Operation Among Fruit Shippers Told

GROWERS HEAR TALKS BY FARM BUREAU HEADS

ORANGE, Sept. 16.—R. W. Blackburn, president of the California Farm Bureau federation, and J. W. Crill, president of the Orange County Farm bureau, were speakers at a meeting at the Orange Union High School last night, with Chester Gray, representative of the American Farm Bureau federation, Washington, D.C. giving the principal address of the evening.

Blackburn spoke of the situation which confronts the nation which he declared he believed to be more serious than ever had confronted the American people before.

"It is night time now and we can't see where we are going and I wonder if the farm bureau will be the organization which will furnish the light to get out of the situation," he declared.

The meeting of citrus growers to discuss the pro rata plan of marketing at Garden Grove tonight was announced.

Crill was the last speaker on the program and he outlined some of the difficulties which had been encountered in putting over the pro rata agreement between the ten largest co-operative fruit organizations. Among things encountered which hampered the pro rata program, Crill cited selfishness, pessimism and apathy.

A cynic, Crill said, is the most detestable being as he knows the price of everything and the value of nothing. The matter with the orange market, Crill said, was that too many cars of oranges are being shipped.

"What is the use of shipping 2000 cars of oranges when consumers only want 1000," Crill asked. "We have two organizations fighting each other and growers may furnish ammunition with their fruit."

The speaker outlined several of the conditions which govern marketing and declared that only quality and quantity can be controlled by the grower. The citrus industry, he said, has developed to a high plane and growers and those connected with the industry are being put to a new test. The test is that they get closer together than they ever have been before. The problem is strictly an economic one, said Crill, and it can be solved if the growers get together.

"It is pitiful," said the speaker, "that the two organizations representing 87 per cent of the entire crop of oranges can't get together. We have the solution of the problem if we exercise it."

The farm bureau official declared that some persons feared that co-operation might result in a total and the whole situation, that one might swallow the other. This fear, he said, was unfounded as he had talked with representatives in authority in both organizations and had yet to hear that any such idea had been thought of.

"I believe," said Crill, "that the two organizations are a necessary evil and that owing to a human element they should continue as separate units. Some growers may not like this organization but may like the other. We are facing a very serious problem and we will be in the same state of affairs that other agriculturists are because they could not get together."

He said in part: "The beginning of the hospital was in September, 1914, when there were 25 patients, mostly chronic, in the hospital. The institution necessarily made its growth with the increasing population of Orange county, until today there is an average number of patients in the hospital of 210."

"The amount of money which was spent for all purposes, including the care of 20 acres of oranges and hospitalization of 2943 patients during the year ending the building and equipping of a new building, was $27,575 and the receipts from all sources, was $16,834.76, bringing the cost per patient to $2 per day. PLAN PALMS TO PINES HIGHWAY TRIP SATURDAY

Southern California newspaper editors, city and county officials and others have been invited to make a trip over the newly opened Pines-to-Palms highway from Idyllwild to Indio tomorrow. The group will gather at Riverside at 10 a. m. and will stop at Idyllwild Inn at noon for luncheon.

Following the luncheon at Idyllwild Inn, the party will start the trip to Indio, stopping at points of interest along the route. Much of the road has not been hard surfaced yet, but the scenic beauties of the trip will repay any who take the trip, it was said.

In the Indio section date orchards will be inspected and members of the party were promised all the fresh dates they can eat. Refreshments will be served under auspices of the Coachella Valley Chamber of Commerce, after which a short social period will be enjoyed. In the cool of the evening, the trip will be made back to Riverside.

The members of the party will be guests of the Riverside and Coachella Chambers of Commerce.

The forest measuring worm, when alarmed, will stand out so straight and still from a limb that even the birds think him a small twig and pass him by.

93 OLD TIMERS REUNITE HERE WITH BANQUET

ANAHEIM, Sept. 16.—Delving back into the history of Anaheim, conjuring up stories of humor and pathos that dealt with the beginnings of the German settlement and renewing old friendships, the first annual banquet of the Old Boys' club was held last night at the Elks' clubhouse and was attended by 93 guests. Dr. H. A. Johnston presided and Thomas McFadden acted as toastmaster.

As the members took their places around the festive board each donned whiskers and took up the old German pipes that held cigarettes and were to be found as favors at each place. Small German and American flags bonded together, symbolized the close relationship between the two peoples that was begun early in the township's founding and has continued through the years. The napkins at each place bore the words, "First Annual Banquet of the Mother Colony Old Boys" and the names of the officers.

During the brief business session officers were elected for the next year. The time and meeting place will be determined by the governing board. Fred Backs, Jr., was elected president, Phil Stanton vice president, and the governing board includes William Wallop, Herman Dickie, E. A. Yungbluth and Sam Kraemer. "Swapping" old stories, old times and remembering old meeting places informal talks were given by Fred C. McKinney, now of Los Angeles, but owner of the first drug store here, Juan de la Guerra, A. L. Lewis, Bob McFadden and Phil Stanton.

Terry Stephenson of Santa Ana gave the principal address on "History of Orange County and Southern California." The Reverend Father Dubbel, former priest from the St. Boniface Catholic church, read a speech that he delivered here at the time of the Golden Jubilee.

Ed Backs sang "I Love You California" and "Trees" while Herman Dubel, tenor, sang "Holy City." "Doc" H. E. W. Barnes sang two negro spirituals and Fayett Lewis sang "School Days" in German. The accompanist was Mrs. E. C. Kendrick.

CANCELLED EVERY DOLLAR THEIR CUSTOMERS OWED THEM

The country storekeeper and his wife who sat up one night going over their books and then cancelled every dollar their customers owed . . . Mr. and Mrs. James Hennum.

While nations talk of moratoriums,
the proprietors of a general store
in Sloan, Iowa, wiped from their books $75,000 in unpaid debts---because it was "better for all concerned"

ALL this high-sounding talk of "moratoriums" still may be a little puzzling to some of the folks out around the little country town of Sloan, Iowa.

But when it comes to "debt cancellation"—well, every last man, woman and child out there can tell the world about that! And they thank their lucky stars and the generosity of "Jim" Hennum and his good wife for the lesson.

Jim and Mrs. Hennum operate a general merchandise store at Sloan. For 14 years they've been weighing out flour and sugar and other staples for the town's 600 inhabitants and about that many farmers living within a few miles. And many's the basket of groceries and bundle of drygoods that's gone out "on tick" in that time.

One Monday night lately, after the last customer had left their rather ordinary-looking little store, the Hennums locked the front door, turned on the lights in the rear, which serves as an office, and busied themselves with accounts and figures far into the night.

They thumbed through ledgers worn with much handling. Then after quiet discussion they composed a letter. They took it to the town printer whose eyes popped as he read the "copy."

THE next night the Hennums were busy in their office again. To every customer who had a charge account they addressed one of the letters, fresh from the printshop.

The letter they so quietly composed was one of the most effective ever put in the mails. It brought 100 per cent customer response to the store within a few hours. For it said:

"Kind Friends, Mr. and Mrs. . . .
"We take the liberty of cancelling your debt to us of $

"We hope this will meet with your approval. After careful consideration we feel a Higher Will is guiding. May God bless and prosper you is our prayer.

"With best regards,
"Mr. and Mrs. James Hennum."

In the blanks they had filled the customers' names and the full amount of their debts. Rich and poor alike received the startling notes. Bills from two weeks old to 12 years, ranging from a few dollars to more than $1000, were wiped off the books.

Some of the larger and older accounts were secured by mortgages on machinery, livestock and land. Others were protected by notes. But notes and securities were cancelled and returned with the brief form letter.

Farmers scurried across the fields to tell neighbors of their good fortune, only to learn that the man on the next land had been treated equally well.

MANY of the beneficiaries just were starting to buy their farm homes. Others were well established. Dozens of customers, able and willing to pay up accounts, swarmed into the store. All received the same answer:

"Your bill is cancelled. If you want to give your money to someone, give it to the church or to help someone."

It was too much for many a hard-shelled old farmer. Big, husky, tanned men, who have been fighting in recent years to make ends meet after crop failures, grasshopper plagues and less-than-production-costs prices, were unable to express their thanks. Their voices choked and with tears streaming from their eyes, they grasped the hand of the storekeeper and his wife, and then, embarrassed, departed.

Now, Mr. and Mrs. Hennum are quiet, unassuming rural storekeepers. They expected their customers to receive the letters and be quietly thankful.

But Sloan is only 20 miles from Sioux City, Ia., an active, middle-western city. Reporters and photographers from the daily newspapers there rushed to Sloan for a story.

THEY were dubious. Perhaps it might be a publicity stunt of some kind. Maybe the storekeeper and his wife were fanatics. One tipster even offered the suggestion that perhaps the storekeeper's reason had been affected by the "hard times."

But the townspeople and neighbors of the Hennums quickly corrected these impressions. The reporters learned that only the Hennums knew exactly the amount of the bills they had cancelled.

Fellow businessmen, who are acquainted with the store and its financial condition, estimated the letter had "cost the Hennums at least $75,000."

Hennum at first was decidedly "put out" when newspapermen arrived. Then his good nature got the best of him. He is a tall, earnest man of Norwegian stock, and unbelievably modest.

"I didn't do this so I could blow about it," he protested. "All I can say is that my wife and I felt that the depression is affecting people pretty badly here and we thought it was better for all concerned if we released them from our bills."

"We believe in giving and forgetting," Mrs. Hennum added.

Hennum is not wealthy; but, said he:

"My wife and I have been fortunate in having had good health and in having been able to make our living and still lay by a little something in addition. People here have been hit hard with crop losses and financial reverses.

"Before the debt cancellation plan was decided upon, we took an inventory. We decided we still could get along and operate a store, even if we're not so young as we once were.

"I didn't want any fuss made about this and I tried to keep it quiet. It was just a Christian act, the will of God."

But an act of generosity as large as the Hennums' could not be done quietly. Neighbors and townspeople, all with a genuine cause for gratitude, refused to keep silent.

They tell you that Mr. and Mrs. Hennum are nearly 60 years old and that he has resided in the vicinity nearly all this time. He was born at the tiny inland town of Alabaton, Ia., nearby, attended Norwegian Bible School and was a member of the Lutheran Church.

He always has been a hard worker and success has attended all his efforts. As a youth of 19, Hennum went to Sioux City and worked for his room and board while attending business college. The next few years he spent as an instructor in the college.

Then he entered the real estate business at Sibley, Ia., before opening a general mercantile business at Maple Landing, Ia. Shortly before this he was married to Miss Alma Alcock, a neighbor girl from his town. Mrs. Hennum operated the store while her husband ran a "peddler wagon." He took orders from farmers one day and delivered them the next. Then the young couple tried farming for four years before returning to the Maple Landing store.

In 1918 the Hennums moved to Sloan and located just a few doors distant.

They own a moderately priced auto and a truck. They have a married daughter, who lives on a farm near Sloan.

ONE resident of Sloan put it this way: "They have just one child and she is comfortably provided for. They have enough to keep them the rest of their lives. I guess they just decided to do something for somebody else."

Old-time residents of Sloan recall another similar bright spot in the town's history. Years ago a bank failed in Sloan. The president, Art Handy, owned a good deal of real estate and personal property. When the bank became insolvent, Handy sold all his possessions, pauperizing himself, but he paid depositors 100 cents on the dollar.

The Hennums will be happy when their act is forgotten.

"I wish people would quit talking about it," Hennum said gravely. "It's been a little hard, getting things back to normal around the store."

But long after things get back to normal and Hennum's charge accounts begin to swell again, he'll be hearing from his amazing act of generosity, dislike it as he may.

FOR as newspapers spread the story, he was deluged with letters from far and near, commending him. Some were hopeful he had set a precedent that others would follow. Many, far from the sphere of his benefaction, prayed God's blessing on him and his wife.

Their modest, white-frame store with its old-fashioned display windows is pointed out to tourists by the townsfolk.

"That's Jim Hennum's," they exclaim, and proudly relate the whole story if they chance upon one who hasn't heard the details.

The Hennums haven't been able to keep the townspeople from talking about them.

Said one of Hennum's fellow townspeople as he gazed across the street at the village store: "It was Rutledge, I guess, who said: 'By doing good with his money, a man as it were stamps the image of God upon it, and makes it pass current for the merchandise of heaven.'"

"I guess Jim and his wife just felt they had room for one more line on those shelves of theirs over there."

The country store in Sloan, Iowa, where the Hennums put their own debt cancellation program into effect.

they have been there since. Both are active in church and community circles of the town. Hennum is a Mason and his wife an Eastern Star. They attend the Congregational Church in Sloan. Neighbors say they also help support the Lutheran Church in the small town of Alabaton, where Hennum was a youth. They are generous in their gifts to the Christian and Methodist churches in Sloan, also.

People in Sloan rate the Hennums as "well off." They continue to operate the small store and Mrs. Hennum is in charge when her husband is away. Their small, modest home is

The fish, a 122-pounder, measuring over eight feet from tip to tip, was found on the harbor entrance jetties about a half-mile out. It took 50 minutes from the time that it was harpooned to land it in the box. C. W. Francis of Los Angeles fishing from the boat, "Blue Fin" landed a 144-pound swordfish almost exactly the same local last Sunday.

MANAGER ONLY FIGUREHEAD IN WORLD SERIES

(This is the fourth and last of a series by Frank G. Menke, International News Service sport editor, dealing with the world series.)

By FRANK G. MENKE
(I.N.S. Sports Editor)

NEW YORK, Sept. 16.—(I.N.S.)—The manager of the Yankees is supposed to make a material difference in the outcome of every world series.

Managerial brains. But who can raise a thumb and place it on the man who, by strategy alone, and by a bewildering display of generalship, won a championship to which he was not entitled on the basis of merit and luck?

Who so devastatingly outsmarted who so that his name can be written forever into the Halls of Fame?

In A. D. 1829 Connie Mack performed a hot cha surprise party by chiseling the camphor caking of Howard Egan, oiling up his hints and shooing him against the Cubs. Howard responded by striking out the Cubs with such monstrous regularity that they never recovered from the habit during the rest of the argument and were blotted out as contenders in five festivals.

Connie Astonished Cubs

Mack was given great credit for being a regular $500 silver fox, packed down from $995, owing to business conditions. Some folks will tell their grandchildren that this was the bit of sleight-of-hand executed by Connie which simply outwitted the Cubs right out of stride and they never were the

SOMERVILLE 6 UP ON GUILFORD Saints Schedule Game With Compton

CATHEDRAL OFF CARD: DONS GO TO LONG BEACH

Santa Ana Hi's seasonal football schedule was officially complete today with the substitution of Compton for Cathedral in a non-conference game here September 30 or October 1.

Cathedral, a Los Angeles school, was unable to arrange its program to fill the local date so Compton, through East (Deacon) Pine, head of that city's physical education department, volunteered to take its place against the Southern California champions.

Whether the contest is held Friday or Saturday, however, will not be known until Santa Ana jayssee learns definitely if it plays the Loyola Frosh on the afternoon or evening of October 1, plans being under way for a night game at the Bowl.

Compton, coached by Ed Suggitt, former Whittier backfield ace, figures to be suitable opposition for Santa Ana. The Bay league team is unusually strong this year, claiming a host of returning lettermen from a squad that did quite well last season.

His now complete schedule follows:

Sept. 24—Orange at Santa Ana.
Sept. 30 or Oct. 1—Compton at Santa Ana.
Oct. 8—Long Beach at Santa Ana.
Oct. 15—Herbert Hoover at Santa Ana.
Oct. 22—Pasadena at Santa Ana.
Nov. 5—Santa Ana at San Diego.
Nov. 5—by (U.S.C.-U.C. game).
Nov. 11 or 12—Santa Ana at Alhambra.
Nov. 19—Fullerton at Santa Ana.
Nov. 24 or 25—Santa Ana at Glendale.

Confident his present 68 candidates will furnish sufficient power to make Santa Ana junior college one of the Empire contenders for the Orange Bill Cook hauled his Dons to Long Beach this afternoon for their first informal scrimmage with Coach Oak Smith's Vikings.

Ends Lash and Melsinger, Tackles Heffron and Baldwin, Guards DeSmet and Kluthe, Center Hoar, and Backs Welty, quarter, Captain Hall and Bell, halves, and Smith, full, were scheduled to work for Santa Ana at the start of the 4 o'clock drill.

Candidates next in line were

Draw Pairs Women Golf Stars Next

Mrs. L. H. Robinson and Miss Mary Sausberry, co-favorites in pre-tournament reckoning, meet next week in the second round of the Santa Ana Country club's annual women's championships.

Mrs. Robinson defeated Mrs. J. L. McFadden, one up, and Miss Sausberry eliminated Mrs. Hugh Shields, one up, in first round matches.

The fate of the draw pairs them next. The survivor is popularly expected to win the title for the past two years by Mrs. J. L. Ainsworth but not defended by her this month.

First round results and second round pairings:

Championship Flight

Mrs. L. H. Robinson (defeated Mrs. G. L. McFadden, 1 up), vs. Miss Mary Sausberry (d. Mrs. Hugh Shields, 1 up).

Mrs. Osman Pixley (d. Mrs. C. V. Doty, 2 and 1) vs. Miss Margarette Nye (d. Mrs. J. K. McDonald, 3 and 4).

Miss Lolita Mead (d. Mrs. R. D. Creshaw, 5 and 4) vs. Mrs. J. E. Gehlbach (d. Mrs. B. J. MacMullen, default).

Mrs. G. E. Talbert (d. Mrs. F. C. Drumm, 2 and 1) vs. Mrs. W. W. Foote (d. Mrs. B. W. McClure, 3 and 2).

First Flight

Mrs. Roy Langley (defeated Mrs. E. E. Piper, 2 and 1) vs. Mrs. L. R. Kennedy, bye.

Mrs. E. B. Van Meter, bye, vs. Mrs. C. J. Cogan, (d. Mrs. C. H. Chapman, 3 and 2).

Mrs. N. Lantz, bye, vs. Mrs. W. C. Fletcher, bye.

Mrs. Don Andrews, bye, vs. Mrs. L. J. Bushard (d. Miss Lu Pomeroy, 3 and 1).

Shooting an 89 for the first time, Miss Margarette Way won Class A match play at the country club yesterday. She was two up. Miss Lolita Mead, who had a 92, was second, one down. Next were Mrs. L. H. Robinson, Mrs. B. W. McClure, Mrs. C. V. Doty and Mrs. J. K. McDonald, all four down.

Mrs. L. J. Bushard and Mrs. Norbert Lantz both had 98's, breaking 100 for the first time. Mrs. Bushard thus won Class B, even to par. Mrs. Lantz was one down, Mrs. Don Andrews two down.

Class C results: Mrs. Nat Neff, three down; Miss Lu Pomeroy, four down; Mrs. M. N. Thompson, Mrs. R. A. Hooven and Mrs. H. Bradley, eight down.

Kane, Coast Umpire, Dies In Portland

PORTLAND, Ore., Sept. 16.—(UP)—Harry Kane, Pacific Coast league umpire, was found dead of a heart attack in his Portland hotel room last night by brother umpires when they returned from last night's ball game.

Kane was stricken Tuesday night on the field and was taken to his hotel room at the end of the fourth inning. The Portland ball club physician was called and diagnosed Kane's ailment as heart trouble. He was not believed in immediate danger and was ordered to bed for several days.

When Edward McLaughlin, umpire, left the hotel where he and Kane were staying last night, Kane seemed to be resting easily, McLaughlin said, and when they returned after the game, he first believed Kane was asleep.

FORMER PUPILS READY TO TEST INGRAM BEARS

BERKELEY, Sept. 16.—Seven former football pupils of "Navy Bill" Ingram will join forces as the coaching staff of the West Coast Navy grid team to give their teacher a bad afternoon here tomorrow. The seven will also don uniforms to test the metal of Ingram's Golden Bears.

Heading the list of Ingram-coached Navy players is Lt. Tom Hamilton, head coach and star back of the West Coast team. Hamilton, a big man who weighs 198 pounds and is 6:2, captured a crowd of 70,000 spectators last season in the Armistice game in the Memorial stadium. He runs, passes and punts but his outstanding achievement of the 1931 season was a 35-yard drop kick against the West Coast Army.

Assisting Hamilton will be L. Herbert Hoerner and Jacob Schwab. Ensigns David Whitehead, John Byng, Oscar Hagberg and Magruder Tuttle.

Starred At Academy

Hoerner and Schwab were both members of the 1927 Naval Academy team. Hoerner, powerful lineman, assists Hamilton with the coaching of the forward wall. Schwab, a backfield coach, plays safety and has the reputation of being the shiftest runner on the West Coast squad.

Whitehead is another back and calls the signals while in the game. Byng and Hagberg graduated from the academy in 1931. Byng, an end, is also called into the backfield to do some of the passing and Hagberg, a 194-pounder who stands 6:2, is a spectacular pass receiver. Tuttle, a center, captained the 1931 Navy squad.

Ingram, at least, has one advantage. He knows what to expect from the seven sailors, who coach and play for the West Coast Navy eleven.

Play Cal. Aggies Too

Meanwhile, the California coast must keep one eye on the Cal-fornia Aggie team which meets the Bears Saturday also and, more important, must concentrate his attention on the development of the Bears.

Teams have begun to take shape at the practice field. Ingram's present group finds a backfield which includes two veterans and two untied sophomores. Schaldach, veteran of two seasons, is back at left half and Castro fills the right halfback berth. The sophomores are Bertoll, Meek, and Klein, full.

Meek, sophomore end and all-around athlete, has temporarily, at least, gained a varsity berth at right end, displacing Letterman Degnan. Waterbury has held the other wing position during the practices and the two veterans, Captain Tozer and Ransome, are the tackles. Carlos and Sammy Gill, fourth of the Gills, are back in the guard berths which they held last season and Baldwin, letterman from the '31 team, at the varsity center assignment, at present.

YANKS BUY DeSHONG

SACRAMENTO, Sept. 16.—(UP)—Jimmy DeShong, righthand pitcher secured by the Sacramento Senators from the Philadelphia Athletics in the deal which Tony Freitas, star southpaw to the A's, has been sold to the New York Yankees, according to word received here from Lewis Morcine, solon owner, at Los Angeles where the team is now playing. The sale price was not made public but was believed to be approximately $10,000.

EVELYN FURTSCHE ENTERS SANTA ANA JUNIOR COLLEGE

In the hysteria attending enrollment of California freshmen . . . and Joe Preininger of the '30 Saints is playing tackle alongside him.

Don Plumb, the Tustin kid who sheltered through a number of 9.5 hundreds for Pomona last track season, is working out as a back on the Sageshen variety.

Tutoring the Stanford freshmen is "Chuck" Winterburn, who after a highly successful 1925 coaching career in Santa Ana vaulted to a position as "Pop" Warner's assistant . . . of those "Four Musketeers": Welty, Todd, Peters and Flippen. Todd is rate sure fire variety stuff, so next year Stanford will have a Ray Todd and a Jay Todd, the latter being a regular end.

Ralph Unland, of Riverside, one of those "chopping dukes," had a batting average of .824 for the recent Riverside-Rialto series. He got one for four in the first game of the Anaheim series. Well, what of it?

Wonder how Jim Musick will like pro football? . . . Johnny Ward, now coaching at Garden Grove, tried it for a season, quit before "I got punch-drunk."

Santa Ana Hi football teams have always been the best dressed champions of Southern California prepdom. "Tex" Oliver is as creative as Old Mother Hubbard about his outfits for this year's gang . . . and the old manie has my nose for news sniffing.

Glendale is in an ideal spot in Coast league football . . . The Dynamiters have 17 lettermen, yet nobody is giving 'em a tumble. Bewah, Gerald, bewah. . . . Operative 7717 tells me those tears from my old boy fren' Wide Wild Cole of Tustin are only crocodile tears, that Tustin will be "there or thereabouts" on Thanksgiving day.

Are we growing old, or do the fires chance to be burning low just now? Isn't there a quotation about when the gods depart the half gods . . . Or is it the other way around? Oh well, send it down and let those erudite printers wrestle with it.

Duane Larrabee, Santa Ana Hi halfback last year, blossoms out as a right end with the Southern

SANTEN FLOPS RIVERSIDE AND STRONGBOW IN ANAHEIM PLAY 3-FALL MATCH SECOND GAME

Taking the odd fall with an overhead body slam that almost sent the chief through the floor, Charley Santen, Missouri "strong boy," overcame a 22-pound weight handicap to prove his wrestling superiority to the Orange County Athletic club here last night.

Strongbow, an ox of 240 pounds, won the first fall in 22 minutes with a series of body slams but these failed to extract the strength of Santen who pinned the chief with an airplane spin 6 minutes later and then won the third and deciding fall in 9 minutes, 58 seconds.

The "kick" of the match was offered by Mickey Masters, half-pint referee, who looked like he had spent an evening in a steam cabinet by the time Santen drove Strongbow into the floor. More Anxious to land the "key" game, always of vital importance in a brief series, Anaheim and Riverside meet again at Anaheim tonight.

A three-to-two choice as a result of pre-series impressions and a convincing victory in the opener Tuesday, Anaheim's odds were as high as 2-1 today because the Valencians have the added advantage of playing under their own familiar arcs and before a friendly National league crowd.

Bob Rose, No. 2 member of Anaheim's mound staff, probably will work for the homesters although Manager Vic Ruedy reserves the right of picking "Puzz" Errington at the last moment.

Errington shutout in the 3-0 inaugural inlander in the free-swinging veteran Jim Duncan wasted, Riverside's Freddy Smith must choose between Lloyd Lichtenwalter and Chet Briggs, both supposedly superior to "Slim Jim." Briggs is the likely nominee. He is a young speed gunner with a half-speed ball that has baffled most American leaguers this semester. Lichtenwalter is a change-of-pace hurler, much after the style of Errington.

Francis Lemon will catch for Anaheim, the hustling Johnny Zik-ratch for Riverside.

The third game of the series will go to Colton Monday; the fourth returns to Anaheim Wednesday.

Al Linares New Pro At Willowick

Al Linares today succeeded his brother, Dick, as professional at the Willowick golf club, West Fifth street pay-as-you-play course.

Dick Linares has moved to Los Angeles and soon will be associated with another club, it is understood. Al, who has been residing at Long Beach, is returning "home" for he was instructor at Willowick more than a year before being succeeded by Bob White and the other Linares.

Willowick plans a series of weekly group lessons for student beginners, with Pro Linares offering the instruction gratis.

Meanwhile, qualifying rounds will begin tomorrow leading up to the second annual Killingsworth Cup tournament. Qualifying will close Sept. 25.

ALHAMBRA HAS 13 LETTERMEN, TITLE DREAMS

(This is the first of seven articles reviewing the prospects and possibilities of Coast Preparatory league football teams. Today's installment considers Alhambra Hi, 1931 runner-up.—Sport editor's note.)

By DICK ZEHRMS

A coach's dream has come true, believe it or not!

The coach . . . George Hobbs. The place . . . Alhambra High. Thirteen, lucky or unlucky, lettermen grace the Alhambra grid-iron these days, rounding into shape for the 1932 Coast league grid race. That means veterans for every position on the team, and a couple left over for good measure.

"Genial George" is on the spot. He must produce a championship team, yet the Moors will be no more than even money when the conference opens its annual hectic race Oct. 1. Why? Santa Ana and San Diego!

Prospects Best Since '28

Not since 1928 has Alhambra enjoyed such exceptional returning grid talent. Those were the prep days of Orr Mohler and Company Today, mayhaps, the Moors stand on the threshold of a new era. But the guess is negative.

Those 13 lettermen are Captain Charles Ogden, end; Bob Cosgrove, tackle; Dan Hewlish, guard; Ward Stockton, guard; Len Collier, center; Harold Smith, guard; Walter Sefton, tackle last year but a future half or quarter; Bob Archibald, quarter; Dick Carroll, end; Myron Becker, tackle; Ed Carlton, end; Hal Kelly, halfback, and Jack Snodgrass, tackle.

Fortunately for Coast league rivals, only 11 men can play at one time. And Jack Snodgrass, hard-hitting tackle, will be ineligible because of scholastic deficiencies.

Word comes from the Moor school that line prospects are much brighter than backfield hopes. Hawlish, Stockton and Cosgrove are the hottest of the lot. The line will average 180. Hawlish tips the beams at 205. Myron Becker, another tackle, scales 195 yet he may be forced to play "ee-yet" fiddle to Bob Cosgrove who has a lease on the first string job.

Coach Hobbs candidly admits

STANFORD FRESHIES BETTER THAN USUAL

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Sept. 16.—With potentially the strongest Stanford freshman team in more than five years, Coach "Chuck" Winterburn will send his papooses against the Fresno State yearlings here tomorrow. The contest will serve as a preliminary to the Stanford-Olympic club frocas. Winterburn's lineup follows:

Lefty, Wenatchee, Wash., lb; Calloway, Fresno, lt; Adams, Balboa Hi, San Francisco, rg; Roth, Commerce Hi, San Francisco, c; Roubel, Lowell Hi, San Francisco, rg; Brandin, Kiski, rt; Kingsbury, Los Angeles, re; Todd, Orange, c; Grayson, Portland, Ore., lb; Hamilton, Kiski, rh; Alustiza, Stockton, f.

Other men who will doubtless set into the fray are Keynotes, Oklahama; Carlson, Lowell Hi, San Francisco, and Maentz, Allegan, Mich., tackles; Pinotti, Sutter Creek and Bardin, Salinas, guards; Howell, Menlo, center; Erskine, Piedmont, end; Reiser, Commerce Hi, San Francisco, half; Lewis, Commerce Hi, San Francisco, and Hoos, Balboa Hi, San Francisco, quarter; Morgan, Los Angeles, Sears, Vallejo, and Burg, Butte,

SIX HARVEST HANDS TO TOP KREG PROGRAM

Plans are being made at the studio of KREG to accommodate a capacity crowd of old and new friends gathered tonight at 7:30 o'clock to greet the Six Harvest Hands. Their hundreds of friends who cannot crowd into the studio will attend the "open house" by tuning in their radios.

This group of specialty entertainers during an earlier engagement over KREG proved easily that it was one of the outstanding attractions on the local broadcast. In addition to their unusual and excellent entertainment they present a colorful picture in their costumes and playing instruments that range from tin cans to bicycle pumps. These instruments under manipulation of the Harvest Hands give forth surprisingly good music.

Later in the evening, starting at 9 o'clock, another feature program will be presented. This presentation will be by Senor Enrique Laurent, director of the Spanish program and will feature the closing event of the two-day fiesta held here celebrating Mexican independence day.

As a closing feature of the celebration the Spanish speaking people of Orange county will give a free dance at K. P. hall. This celebration will be broadcast along with the presentation of Miss Dolores Mahante, fiesta queen, and her court of honor.

PRESENT PRIZES FOR SCRAPBOOK

Presentation of a check for $5 to Ruth and Margaret Ames, 610 South Ross street will be featured over radio KREG at 7:15 o'clock tonight as a part of the "Knights and Ladies of the Bath" program, conducted by Lorena Cuddy.

The award will be first prize in the cleanliness scrapbook contest which is ending tonight. While there was little competition in the event the book prepared by the two prize winners easily met requirements of the judges. The contest was sponsored by the Cleanliness Institute of New York.

FAVORITE PASTIME OF BOTH PARTIES NOW IS DISPLAYING OPPONENT'S 'DIRTY LINEN'

By RODNEY DUTCHER

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16.—Issues between the two old parties being either too scarce or too controversial, they have taken enthusiastically to the business of washing each other's dirty linen and waving it before the public.

Both sides capitalize the squeals, the discontents and the closest skeletons within the lines of the other party. Republicans seek to poison the minds of Democrats against Democratic candidates and Democrats try to play the same trick on the Republicans. Each harps on the other's unfortunate domestic troubles to a degree that suggests the difficulty they encounter in finding more attractive appeals to the voters.

For instance, about every other statement issued through the Republican national committee under the name of one of the G. O. P. statesmen has a wisecrack or two about the feud between Al Smith and Governor Franklin Roosevelt or the way the latter and Jack Garner were nominated. That would seem to be strictly Democratic business, of course, but whenever a party is trying to heal its own wounds it is the other party's policy to pull out the scabs and rub salt in them.

The committee issues a statement ascribed to Senator Vandenberg of Michigan which discusses Garner's references to the tariff, and it cannot refrain from alluding to "the Hearst-McAdoo deal in his behalf." After Roosevelt's speech at Seagirt, N. J., there was a long statement from Congressman Hull of Peoria, Ill., purporting to give inside stuff on the Democratic convention and the way the Democratic prohibition plank came to be adopted. The Republican committee also issued a letter from one of the party's congressmen asking Garner why he didn't come to the telephone when Al Smith tried to telephone him from Chicago just before the nomination.

Then there was the statement of the famous Senator George Higgins Moses of New Hampshire, a leading party spokesman, who deplored the allegedly shabby way in which Roosevelt had treated Smith. Recalling the anti-Catholic propaganda which George used against Al in the 1928 campaign, one can imagine the tears he must be shedding now.

Until lately many of the official Republican razzberries have been Wheeler, Dill and Long, three Progressives, were prominent among the Roosevelt supporters at Chicago. Failure of any of the three to figure importantly thus far in the campaign has sadly disappointed the Republicans. So has the disappearance of John J. Raskob, whose name they used to shout simply because so many Democrats were prejudiced against him.

On the Democratic side one finds similar tactics in use, although the minority party is so busy disparaging Hoover and his record that it doesn't have to go far into the G. O. P.'s internal troubles beyond capitalizing the sorrow of many Republicans who wish they had another candidate.

Roosevelt actually goes out and appeals to all good Republicans to repudiate Hoover. He concentrates not on the party, but its leadership, urging its members to purge it of an unfortunate affliction for which the party, he says, is much too good.

And when a Boston man starts a row with the Republican national committee over the question whether that $25,000 check he mailed the committee was a loan or a gift, the Democratic committee bursts out with a statement from Senator Swanson of Virginia demanding an investigation of what is obviously a matter for

EXTENSIONS ON MORTGAGES IS BOARD SUBJECT

Discussion as to means of making time extensions on home mortgage loans to prevent foreclosure was discussed by members of the Santa Ana Realty Board at their regular meeting this noon in Ketter's cafe, according to W. B. Martin, president.

The Realty Board is acting with the National Association of Real Estate Boards in attempting to make adjustments in regards to mortgage loans, particularly in regard to home mortgage loans which will be eventually eligible for rediscout through the new Federal banks.

Announcement has been made of an order issued on August 26 by the United States comptroller of currency that receivers for national banks suspend all foreclosure proceedings on homes for a 60-day period, and of a request by the Federal government that all state banking departments take similar action to prevent such foreclosures, which it is anticipated will not be necessary after the new Federal Home Loan banks come into action.

"This announcement," real estate officials said, "the first fruits of the efforts of the National association and its member boards in initiating the Federal Home Loan Bank Act and urging its passage, must come as a tremendous relief to hundreds of thousands of home owners who have been worried about their present situation or about the situation which may confront them in the near future. It is the first definite proof that something will be done to help them and to alleviate the general real estate credit situation."

BETTER PRICE OUTLOOK FOR AVOCADO MEN

Adding more optimism for nearly 2000 avocado growers of this district, and throughout Southern California, was the announcement today of better prices for avocados.

This announcement by Carl V. Newman, district leader here for the Calavo Growers' association, was that the average avocado return to the grower for July, and probably also for August and September, actually was two cents per pound higher than that of last year, despite the larger crop this season and the 24 per cent decrease in consumer buying since a year ago.

From about $3.25 per flat this last July, wholesale jobbing prices for "calavos" have risen eight times in the last six weeks, to some $13 per flat today, or are selling wholesale at about $1 per pound now. The rise is attributed to better distribution through an almost 100 per cent co-operative market control, less fruit, and to the elimination of "price-cutting" competition.

Next season, eastern marketing outlets are again expected to bring the highest net returns, with almost 60 cents per flat to be saved to exchange members by shipping in carlot only to New York and other distant outlets. Sales efforts, then, besides being rigidly restricted to promote co-operative handling, fruit, will be concentrated on building "price" and "sales volume" preference among dealers and retailers for association-standardized avocados.

STATE FARM HEAD ASSERTS POLITICS CAUSE OF FAILURE TO ADOPT RELIEF PROGRAM

Farm legislation is being delayed this year because it is a presidential election year and leaders of both parties at Washington have definitely refused to approve any legislation because of fear that it might be used as campaign material by the opposition, according to R. W. Blackburn, president of the California Farm Bureau Federation.

Blackburn, in a brief talk prior to the address of Chester Gray, Washington representative of the American Farm Bureau Federation, told of the refusal of party leaders to act on any agricultural relief matter at a luncheon meeting of Orange County Farm Bureau directors, businessmen, bankers and editors, held yesterday in the Green Cat cafe.

He said that last January he went to Washington and conferred with President Hoover and party leaders on a program that would go a long way toward solving the present economic problem. He was told, he said, by a national leader in the House that no legislation that could be of advantage to the present administration would be enacted this year. Administration leaders made the same statement. Both parties he said, have refused to do anything that would relieve the present condition where 11,000,000 men are out of work because of the fear that it would be of advantage to the opposition.

Gray discussed surplus. Blackburn introduced Gray, the principal speaker, who said that settling the matter of handling agricultural and industrial surpluses without loss to the producer or handling agencies is the big problem facing the nation today.

"When the problem of controlling surplus production so that it does not depress the price for the entire crop has been solved, the major portion of the present economic situation is solved," he said.

Gray traced his fight, as Washington representative of the American Farm Bureau Federation, to control surplus production through the past 10 years. He said that when he went to Washington 10 years ago and said that there was, at that time, a problem of surplus production he was ridiculed. His statements were protested.

This surplus, he said, has made itself manifest in the present depression because the price or value of a commodity is measured by the by the Farm Bureau Federation. The fee builds a fund to guarantee and protect federal funds that must be used at the beginning of the marketing move.

Equalization Fee. This fee is not collected from the individual farmer but when the farm or orchard products reach the points of commerce. At that point the fee is assessed and placed into a fund to be used by cooperative marketing organizations for use in handling surpluses through sales to old markets and creation of new markets through advertising, he explained.

This fee also would be advanced for building industrial plants to handle agricultural products. In this way cash plants could be erected and freezing plants to handle eggs for the industrial market without restoring to importation of these necessities.

The debenture plan, he said, is the second necessary amendment. The importance of more than one plan in the program advanced by the Farm Bureau Federation was stressed by Gray who said that when the United States Treasury is showing a deficit, as it does at present, the equalization fee would be the only practical method of relief. When the deficit has been cared for, then the debenture plan could be used effectively.

Under the Farm Bureau plan the debenture is collected and administered by the United States custom service. Its operation was explained by Gray who said that when a shipper exported wheat or any product to a foreign country he received a government certificate representing half the amount of tariff on the article shipped. This would result in the exporter passing a portion of this extra payment on to the grower, he declared.

In closing he said that the two plans form the principal planks in the American Farm Bureau Federation's legislative program for farm relief and that one without the other would be useless.

J. A. Smiley, president as chairman at the meeting and introduced John Crill, president of the Orange County Farm Bureau. Crill introduced R. W. Blackburn, president of the California Farm Bureau Federation.

John C. Calhoun, vice president under John Quincy Adams, was the only one ever to resign from that office.

Andrew Jackson was the oldest man who was ever president of the United States. He lacked only 11 days of being 70 when he left the White House.

S. A. BAND TO TAKE PART IN CELEBRATION

One of the features in the celebration of the Seventy-fifth anniversary of the founding of Anaheim which is being observed this week, will be the participation tonight of the Santa Ana Municipal band of 50 musicians with D. C. Canfoni, director. The band has just closed the summer concerts at Birch park, where thousands of music lovers from all over Orange county have gathered every Thursday evening to enjoy the high class programs offered.

Harry Hanson, manager of the band, announced the appearance of the band in Anaheim is made possible through the courtesy of the city of Santa Ana, and the co-operation of the members of the band.

The program to be given at Anaheim will be played from 7:30 sharp to 8:30 p. m. A specially built bandstand will be placed in the business center of the city in order to give the people an opportunity of visiting the business places after the concert.

The program in full is as follows: March, "German Fidelity," (Blankenburg); overture, "Zampa," (Herold); selection, "The Desert Song," (Rambert); "Hungarian Dances," (J. Brahms); selection from Carmen (Bizet); Quartette from Rigoletto, (G. Verdi), soloists, Messrs. Zingals, Gargary, Clafonli, Taylor; Characteristic, "The Jolly Musicians," (C. Mucati); waltz, "The Blue Danube" (J. Strauss).

Picnics and Reunions

MINNESOTA. The next Minnesota picnic will be held in Sycamore Grove park, Los Angeles, all day Saturday, September 24. There will be county registers and headquarters, silk souvenir badges, coffee and popular program of songs and addresses.

HOME ROBBED

Orange police have found no clues to the burglars who entered the home of T. R. Earel, at the corner of Batavia street and Collins avenue, Tuesday between 9 a. m. and 4:30 p. m. A white gold watch chain valued at $8, a pair of shoes, two shirts and two blazers were taken. The articles taken were valued at $15.

NOTED HATCHET

Here's the hatchet which Carrie Nation, pioneer prohibitionist, used in the famous days when she and her followers smashed saloon fronts and bars. It's in the possession of the Rev. W. J. Winrod of Wichita, Kan., pictured here as he attended a Bible conference near Asheville, N. C. Now an ardent dry, he once kept a saloon which Carrie Nation invaded. Incidentally, he has refused offers as high as $14,000 for the hatchet.

DISREGARD OF SPEED LAWS HELD AS CAUSE

Although a marked decrease is seen in the number of automobile accidents reported in California during the period ending August 31, such is not the case in Orange county, according to the records of J. B. Casteix, deputy coroner.

There have been 63 persons killed in auto crashes in Orange county this year, nine more than at this time last year and within six of the entire total for last year, he points out. There were 69 persons killed in the county last year as the result of auto crashes.

Ordinarily, year after year, Orange county has trailed the remainder of the state in the number of persons killed on the highways, but not so this year. Casteix, as well as Coroner Earl Abbey attribute the increase here this year to disregard for speed laws. Both predict that the number of deaths in automobile accidents here this year will set a record for the county.

An analysis of the motor vehicle accidents in the state for the year show that up to August 1, there were 1902 persons killed as compared with 1458 killed during the same period of time in 1931. There were 19,117 injured as compared with 19,812 reported during the same period last year.

The state figures show a decrease of 10.70 per cent for the state this year, as compared with last year.

New Dwelling For Spanish Village

SAN CLEMENTE, Sept. 16.—Construction work in the Spanish village is showing signs of increasing activity. Virgil Westbrook, architect, announced that work on the new home of James McCauley would start today.

Dan Mulherson is completing the work of installing 1100 feet of water main for La Brea rancho, owned by H. H. Cotton. The installation of 1500 feet of sewer in the bell park subdivision for Ole Hanson will be completed Saturday.

The new duplex being built by Minnie Beach on the ocean front is nearly completed and will be ready for occupancy in the near future. Westbrook designed the building.

There are 378 waterfalls in Brazil, 14 of which have a potential power of at least 5,000,000 horsepower.

WEDDINGS FASHIONS HOUSEHOLD

Mr. and Mrs. Crosier To Observe Golden Wedding Day

Members of the family circle of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Crosier, 311 Bay Island avenue, Bakers, are planning a gala event for Sunday afternoon, September 18, when they will hold open house to greet friends gathered to aid in the celebration of Mr. and Mrs. Crosier's golden wedding day.

Having claimed Orange county as their home for so many years, the golden wedding pair have a host of friends in every city and village in the county, and in all parts of the Southland. These undoubtedly will be interested in the completion of their fifty years of wedded life, and so the children of the hosts, planning the event, are anticipating a constant succession of callers during the afternoon hours, and have issued a cordial invitation to all old friends to drop in during the interval.

Pewter Shower Honors Miss Thordike and Fiance

One of the prettiest of the showers honoring Miss Elpha Thordike of this city, bride-elect of Albert Tisnerat of Corona, was given this week when Mr. Tisnerat's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Emerson, entertained in their home in Corona. Miss Thordike is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. Thordike, 1628 North Broadway.

A floral setting for the occasion was provided by many lovely bouquets of pink roses and delicate orchid blooms. Bridge games were introduced early in the evening, with the result that Mrs. Arthur Webster scored high for women, receiving an attractive shilling. A handsome tie was awarded James Emerson, who upheld men's honors.

The surprise feature of the evening was the presentation of a complete pewter set to Miss Thordike and Mr. Tisnerat. Goblets, cocktail cups, cream and sugar set and other graceful pieces were included in the gift which the guests had joined in providing for the young couple.

Following bridge play, appetizing refreshments were served at the small tables, centered with miniature brides and bridegrooms dressed in suitable attire. A pink and orchid theme was observed in all appointments.

Present at the affair, other than the honored guests, Miss Thordike and Mr. Tisnerat, were Mr. and Mrs. Frank Emerson, the hosts, and Mr. and Mrs. Edward Tisnerat, Mr. and Mrs. James Emerson, Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Emerson and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Webster.

Bridge Tea Compliments Miss Maloney Before Return to North

Recently arrived with her family from Oregon, where she has been spending the summer since the completion of her junior year at the University of Oregon at Eugene, Miss Betty Maloney was made guest of honor at a bridge tea given Wednesday by Mrs. Edmund C. West, 325 South Garvey street. Miss Maloney is to depart for the north in a few weeks to enter Stanford university as a senior. She will make her headquarters in Robie hall, on the Palo Alto campus.

Friends of the honoree were permitted opportunity Wednesday to greet her for the first time since last Christmas, her absence in the north having dated from that period.

Quantities of red zinnias, sent the hostess by Mrs. Walter Hart of Costa Mesa, and an equally generous display of red dahlias, for which Mrs. West was indebted to T. B. Cone, adorned the rooms of the home and brightened the tea table. From the latter was served a refreshment course, removed to smaller tables enlivened with baskets of baby zinnias, when the bridge play was at an end. Mrs. West was assisted with this phase of her entertaining by her aunt, Mrs. T. E. Stephenson, and by Miss Boyd Joplin.

First prize in the card contest was claimed by Mrs. Robert S. Wade, to whom the hostess presented a plaque, while a picture of smaller description was bestowed upon the guest of honor, Miss Betty Maloney.

Invited to the affair were Miss Maloney, honoree; Mesdames Dan E. Maloney, mother of the guest of honor; T. E. Stephenson, Robert C. Northcross, Gene Hays, Russell Wilson, Bernard D. Parker and Robert S. Wade; the Mesdames Margaret Patterson, Nan and Lolita Mead and Boyd Joplin.

Special Guests Attend Luncheon Preceding Meeting

Mrs. Estelle Grey, president of Sedgwick W.R.C., complimented her officers and committee members in charming fashion Wednesday when she was hostess at a luncheon given to precede the regular afternoon session at the Knights of Pythias hall.

Other guests at the affair were members of the 25 Year Service club of the corps and Commander J. H. Brown of Sedgwick post, G.A.R. As the occasion marked the birthday anniversary of Mrs. Elizabeth Birkhead, she was presented with a basket of flowers by officers of the corps and with a dainty gift from the hostess. Mrs. Grey also presented gifts to her officers.

About 50 guests were present for the luncheon, served at a long table appointed in red, white and blue. Patriotic mints daintily wrapped, were favors. In serving, Mrs. Grey was assisted by Mrs. Gladys McDonald and Mrs. Lucy Robinson of the Orange corps and Mrs. Hattie Wall, Mrs. Emma Wright and Mrs. Kate Johnson of this city.

Preceding the luncheon, the group enjoyed community singing and a social time. Guests had been asked to bring childhood pictures, and the resulting reminiscences proved of special interest. Mrs. S. L. Aubin gave readings.

Regular Meeting
At 2 o'clock in the afternoon, the regular corps session was held, with Mrs. Grey in charge. In attendance were 25 members, 15 officers and four visitors. It was reported that 55 calls had been made; 28 bouquets distributed and $12 expended for child welfare during the past month.

Announcement was made that federation No. 1 will meet Monday, September 26 at Laguna Beach in the community clubhouse. A basket lunch will be served at noon, with the Laguna Beach group supplying the coffee.

A special guest at the meeting was Mrs. Margaret Weaver of Washington, who is spending the winter here. She gave a short talk, as did Mrs. McDonald and Mrs. Robinson of Orange.

Sedgwick W.R.C. will have a monthly luncheon Wednesday, September 28 in the Knights of Pythias hall, it was announced.

CHURCH SOCIETY

Rally Program
The church parlor of St. Peter's Lutheran church were very appropriately decorated for the special Rally day program given Wednesday afternoon at the regular Ladies' Aid and Missionary meeting.

After a short devotional service led by the president, Mrs. Freda Sorenson, the missionary lesson for the day was presented by Mrs. Clara Bayha, whose topic was "Sowers of the Seed in New Guinea." To further depict the missionary work of the American Lutheran church in the New Guinea field, a three act play entitled "The Papuan Girls" was presented by the girls' club of the church. This showed very clearly the type of homes and family surroundings of the Papuan people and brought out the happy change in their young lives after a three months' stay at the mission station.

Those taking part were Miss Lillie Schultz as native mother; Miss Mary Kraft as the missionary's wife, and the following as native children: Barbara Faccou, Arline Sorenson, Irene Schultz, Audrey and Janice Getmar, Genevieve Hanson, Mary Belle Gulick and Mrs. Clarabell Ehlen.

A short business meeting was held after which the Rev. W. D. Meyer gave a talk and ended by expressing his pleasure at the splendid attendance. Mrs. Sorenson extended a hearty welcome to all visitors and members and urged a continued interest in the fall activities now beginning.

The missionary hymns for the play as well as for the meeting were accompanied by Mrs. Guy Koons.

Delicious refreshments were served at the close of the afternoon with Mesdames Freda Sorenson, Anna Hassenger, D. Jones Jr. and Edna Funk acting as hostess.

Mite Box Opening

Mite Box day was observed this week at the September meeting of the First Methodist W. F. M. S. and was an inspiration to everyone present. Mrs. O. R. Matthews chose the eighth chapter of Luke as the basis of her devotional talk followed by short prayers from various members and the hymn, "Glad Tidings." Miss Olive Schweitzer pleaded the members with her two piano solos, "Country Garden" by Grainger and a Grieg number.

Mrs. C. E. Kellogg presided for the business session, part of which was devoted to the reading by Mrs. S. E. Hearn, corresponding secretary, of letters from two missionaries stationed in China, both of which expressed the type of work being furthered by the society.

Mrs. Henry Guthrie and Mrs. E. D. Van Nest were appointed as delegates to the Pacific branch meeting in Pasadena First M. E. church in October.

Mrs. O. R. Matthews directed the reading of selected stories from "The Missionary Friend," all of which were instructive accounts of the work in foreign fields. Assisting her were Mesdames George B. Witte, C. E. Kellogg, Fred Lassenby, S. E. Hutchins and J. W. McCormac.

To introduce the Mite Box program, Mrs. Harry Hayes sang three lovely garden songs, "Thank God for a Garden," "Rose in Bud" and "God Touched the Rose." The very interesting little play which followed, "My Missionary Rose Garden," was written for the occasion by the mite box secretary, Mrs. C. E. Baker, and presented by Mrs. L. Vollmer, Mrs. D. R. Grizzle and Mrs. E. E. Ulrich, assisted by three young Standard Bearers, the Misses Betty Howell, Joy Townsley and Charlotte Steward. Their roles offered a touching demonstration of tithing.

The opening of the mite boxes yielded a gratifying sum, to be increased when other boxes are turned in.

Methodist Class
A covered-dish dinner at Anaheim park was enjoyed Tuesday evening by members of the Two-In-One class of the First Methodist church. About 65 members and their families attended the affair. The committee in charge included Mr. and Mrs. George Fairies, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Wetherell and Mr. and Mrs. Matthews.

Following the dinner meeting, a short business session was conducted by the president, Mrs. R. E. Lutes. Dr. Fred Barie was named vice president to take the place of Mr. Woods.

Fahelo Class Entertains
A play entitled "And the Lamp Went Out" constituted the principal feature of a program presented following a picnic dinner served at Haves park for husbands and friends of Fahelo class members. The event represented an annual hospitality at which the Baptist church group is accustomed to fetter this company.

Directed by Mrs. Leslie Steffensen, a cast comprising Miss Irene Catland, Mrs. Ray Echols, Mrs. Wells Brown and Mrs. John Swanke enacted the brief drama in which hero, heroine and villain were interpreted alike by women. Assistant directors were Miss Edna Ingham, Mrs. Albert Jones, Mrs. Ingham, Mrs. Newcomer and Mrs. Roy Winchester.

The picnic menu was served a gathering of 75 members and guests before the class presented its entertainment. Superintending arrangements for the outing were Mrs. Ada Cave, president; Mrs. Eleanor Newcomer and Mrs. Elizabeth Price.

Special guests were the Rev. and Mrs. Harry Evan Owings, Mr. and Mrs. Will Atkinson and Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Sanford.

Guild Meeting
Making plans for a benefit card party and for a Christmas bazaar, 20 members of St. Elizabeth's Guild of the Church of the Messiah met this week in the church. They enjoyed a covered-dish dinner early in the evening.

The card party is to be held Thursday evening, September 22 at 8 o'clock in the home of Mrs. John Lacy Taylor, 427 South Broadway. All members and friends of the guild are invited to attend. The bazaar is to be held November 20.

"Vocations" Program Topic
Vocational talks were given by three of the women attending the meeting of the Southeast section of the First Presbyterian church held with Mrs. L. B. Hill, 1212 Maple street. Speakers were Mrs. O. Scott McFarland, Mrs. Harry Lewis and Mrs. Hiram Curry.

The instructive program was followed by the serving of home-made cookies and iced tea to members present, by the hostess, Mrs. Hill.

Economy Luncheons
Beginning their activities for the fall season, members of the South section of the Woman's Aid society of the First Methodist church gave two economy luncheons recently.

The first of these was in the home of Mrs. J. C. Kellogg, 432 South Broadway, with Mrs. El-dora Demerest as co-hostess. The other was in the home of Mrs. A. A. Knudson, 618 East Walnut street, with her daughter, Miss Frances Knudson, assisting. On both occasions, the hostesses have served 12 members of the society for a total cost of 50 cents.

Members of the society plan to continue the series of economy luncheons.

ANN MEREDITH'S MIXING BOWL

Here's a Question Ann Can't Answer

DEAR ANN: Please tell us the best method for preserving raw tomato juice? I should also like to know how to preserve "malted pears."

ANN B:
I am unable to tell Ann B. how to preserve RAW tomato juice, and I doubt that anyone else can. "Preserving" means taking steps to eliminate any active germ life in vegetable which might cause fermentation. Boiling does this in tomatoes, it also brings out the color, flavor, and texture of the tomato pulp, a thing impossible to do if the tomatoes were pressed raw to obtain the juice.

Science is positive on the question that cooking does NOT injure the vitamin content in tomatoes. That being so, I can see no good reason for not cooking them.

However, I am open to conviction, and think it better than the ordinary way of preserving tomato juice, we'll all be glad to hear about it.

For lack of space the answer on the malted pears will have to go over to tomorrow's column.

TODAY'S RECIPE
Bacon and Tomatoes en Casserole

3 or 4 cups cooked rice
1 No. 2 can solid pack tomatoes
parsley, salt and pepper
8 or 10 strips bacon

This is what I call a "comfortable" dish; it can be prepared with a minimum of effort yet still be so good to look at and eat. Personally, I have little time for made dishes that requires more extra material to "make" them than would buy a good small steak. That is the rankiest of rank waste.

When cooking rice it is always a good plan to cook an extra amount to use for various purposes, this being one of them. Rice must be cooked in rapidly boiling salted water, uncovered. When you can pinch a grain between finger and thumb and have it mash up under pressure, the rice is done. Turn it into a colander and rinse away all the loose starch under the hot water tap, return to the kettle to dry out.

Before I go on with the recipe for the day, let me ask, what do you do with rice water? It has valuable food values that should be saved. Do it by using the starch water in soups or in creamed dishes. A delicate dessert, one good for children, can be made by reducing the rice water by half (by cooking). Add sugar and flavoring and chill in molds. Serve with sugar and cream.

Butter a rather shallow baking dish so that you'll have plenty of brown top with this dish. Open the can of tomatoes and chop the pulp well, add the preferred amount of cooked rice and season it as lightly as you wish. Drop it by spoonfuls into the casserole, slightly smoothing off the top. Put strips of bacon across the top and occasionally as the rice bakes, run a knife around the edge so that the bacon fat can mix through the rice.

This is a main "hot dish" and suited to a luncheon menu; for the family home dinner serve it with small lamb chops or quickly broiled pats of chopped steak. The meat served with it must not be fat—the bacon takes care of that requirement all too well.

Using four cups of rice and eight strips of bacon the calory

Large Number Attracted To First Comus Club Dance of Season

A gathering of approximately 100 was present at the American Legion hall in Orange last night to welcome in the new Comus club year, launched with a dance whose success promises a banner season.

Guests were greeted by a committee of hosts comprised of Mr. and Mrs. A. K. Loerch, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Webb and Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Hall.

The Sherry orchestra of San Pedro, consisting of seven pieces, provided music of excellent caliber for the succession of dances at which members and guests passed an especially pleasant evening.

Comus club dances will continue to be held in the American Legion hall of Orange this year and are scheduled for the third Thursday of each month.

Anniversary Pictures From Local Studio

Pictures of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Humphreys, 207 Wright street, which appeared in Thursday's issue of The Register in connection with the story of a golden wedding celebration, were made especially by Edward W. Cochems of the Cochems studio, as a memento which Mr. and Mrs. Humphreys planned for their children and grandchildren. It was through the courtesy of the studio that The Register was permitted to reproduce the photographs for the story of the turkey dinner with which the golden wedding celebrants entertained nearly half a hundred relatives and friends on their anniversary, Monday, September 12, 1932.

Fullerton Woman Named Officer of D. A. V. Auxiliary

Elected to the post of junior vice commander by unanimous vote of the Women's auxiliary of Jack Fisher chapter No. 23, Disabled American Veterans of the World War, Mrs. Genevieve Day of Fullerton was installed immediately by Past State Commander Rose Edwards at the Legion hall Wednesday night. Commander Hazel Chittenden served as presiding officer.

Members heard William Dyke, a Hollander travelling around the world, discuss his experiences in an impromptu talk after reports had been submitted on various D. A. V. gatherings at which the local chapter and auxiliary were represented.

Among such recent gatherings was the reception honoring National Commander William Conley and Mrs. Conley, held in Patriotic hall, Los Angeles, and attended by 100 local members. Aspects of Commander Conley's work were reviewed by him in an address in the course of which he pointed out that if various benefits now received through veterans' legislation are eliminated the burden of the care of veterans will fall upon the states and municipalities in which the veterans live.

Other reports concerned a San Diego chapter and auxiliary picnic in Pelicito park, near Escondido, attended by a score of Orange county members, and a meeting of the Long Beach chapter and auxiliary at which a large delegation from this county joined in greeting National Commander Frieda Mooney of the auxiliary, and National Judge Advocate Paul Moon of the chapter. The two had just returned from a "several months" sojourn in Arizona, undertaken for the benefit of the latter's health.

An account of aid extended several families was submitted by Mrs. Rose Edwards, chairman of welfare, who asserted that more help is needed, with the approach of the winter season, than was required during summer. Calls made to hospitals and homes of veterans were reported by Mrs. Ella Pickard, hospital committee chairman.

Plans were revealed for a dessert bridge affair to be held with Mrs. Harry D. Edwards, 920 Halladay street, today at 1 o'clock.

Beginning in October, the club will meet in the social hall of the First Methodist church. It was decided, and picnic sessions are to be held monthly in the homes of members.

Those taking part in the affair were Mesdames Henry Wagner, Vera Baum, R. H. Snyder and son, Bruce; Edna Machander, Nelda Latham and daughter, Avonelle; Fred White, Edith Gardner, C. Vogle, Anna Vogle, R. R. Russick and son, Bobbie; Miss Clara Richards.

FREE FEED TEST TO AID POULTRY

Poultrymen and turkey raisers were advised today that the NOPCO XX 2000 lbs. Free Feed Test is definitely not a letter writing contest but a test to help improve the poultryman's poultry flocks and profits.

Signing an entry blank does not obligate the poultryman to write anything—and whether they do send in a letter by midnight November 28, 1932 which is the end of the free feed test, on the benefits their birds show from daily feeding of laying mash containing NOPCO XX, or not—it's okay, officials of the company say.

"If the poultryman decides to send in the results of the free feed test—he needn't worry about any stationery-handwriting or spelling," the statement said. "He can send notes in on wrapping paper if he likes. That's up to him."

Local feed dealers have all information on the NOPCO XX 2000 lbs. Free Feed Test—and the poultryman and turkey raiser is urged to see his feed dealer at once for details.

Poultrymen who have signed up for the free feed test say that the feed awards will come in mighty handy—and that they are working hard on the NOPCO XX 2000 lbs. free feed test.

NEW BOOKS IN PUBLIC LIBRARY

By Verna Ramsey

Those who read "The Education of a Princess" by Marie Grand Duchesse of Russia, not only responded to the romance and excitement of this woman's life but heard in the short span of her life the turning of a page of history. She continues this life story in "A Princess in Exile."

When the Grand Duchesse Marie made her escape over the Russian border during the harrowing days of the revolution in 1918, she ended one life and began a new one. In her new book she tells the story of homeless royalty scattered over the face of Europe after the upheaval, and of her own efforts to carve a life for herself in unfamiliar and alien surroundings. After her escape she seeks refuge at the court of Queen Marie of Rumania, and this section of her book gives a brilliant picture of the court and its intimates. Thence her story carries her to Paris and London, the constantly changing scene of the countless tragedies that have overwhelmed her people. Little by little she and her compatriots build by themselves a new existence.

How she finds her calling in Paris and in the end follows the trail to America for new successes forms a story of personal evolution that is unique and yet universal. In the course of her narrative she replies to many questions that her readers have been clamoring to have answered, among them, the fate of her family; the experiences of her brother, Dmitri, after his banishment; the later life of her son, Prince Lennart of Sweden; and the all-important question of the conflict that arose between her second marriage and her subsequent career.

The Gobi Desert or "sand-sea" of the Chinese has long been a land of mystery. Its dreary wastes have discouraged detailed investigation of it. From the time of Marco Polo there have been references to it. It is, however, only within the last half century that accurate information has been furnished by various explorers, notably R. P. Chapin, A. H. Hedin, Przhevalski, and Sven Hedin.

In "Across the Gobi Desert," Sven Hedin tells of an expedition starting in 1928 and to extend until the summer of 1932. The scientific achievements have been great and will be even greater. Our knowledge of Central Asia is extended considerably by the maps and charts which have been worked out by the members of the expedition.

The chief meteorologist, Dr. Waldemar Haude, sent up 350 balloons to the height of 69,500 feet for investigations. For four years the chief geologist, Dr. Erik Norin, has explored the geology and orography of Chinese Turkestan and its surrounding mountains in a way and in a detail entirely unparalleled. The Swedish astronomer, Dr. Nils Amundson, has made more careful astronomical observations than has ever before been the case in the history of these regions. Professor P. L. Yuan, the chief Chinese geologist, has done exploration in the fields of several sciences. He discovered fossil dinosaurs in great numbers probably belonging to a species hitherto unknown. This account is filled with epochal discoveries like these.

In spite of the wealth of information contained in this book, it is only a beginning. At the close of the expedition the author hopes to publish a second volume which will probably include many more new facts about these regions.

Christine Frederick in her new book "The Ignoramus Book of Housekeeping" takes it for granted that you know little or nothing about the science of home economics. Therefore, she uses as a foundation the simple facts which are too often taken for granted in other accounts.

Mrs. Frederick's authority on this subject is complete. Her books are probably the most successful that have ever been published in the field, having even been translated into several foreign languages. She was for some years head of the housekeeping department of "The Ladies' Home Journal" and now conducts her housekeeping experiment station at Greenlawn, Long Island.

This book will be helpful to old wives as well as newer ones. The author tells simply all that science has discovered relative to a woman's job as a housekeeper. This involves planning household work to develop leisure; the best new devices to use and those that only add expense to home conduct; marketing; and the operation of a domestic budget under conditions that prevail today. It is a handbook for the housewife, a working tool of the home, such as account books, cook books, or any other thing which is used day by day. It is a reference book arranged with glossary, index, and bibliography so that the particular information wanted can be found easily and quickly.

THE TYNMIES
STORY BY HAL COCHRAN—PICTURES BY KING

The funny man who owned the zoo said, "Now I'll tell you Tynmies who I am and all about my birds. My name is Goofy Guy."

"I've been around the world, you see, and caught things strange as strange can be. And now I have a goofy zoo. A real proud man am I."

"In this small cage each little bird is one of which you've never heard. That small one with the crimson head is called a clumsy-clown."

"Of course you'll never guess just why until I let you see it fly. And then you will discover that the bird flies upside-down."

"Now eye the bird that's half asleep. His food bill, lads, is rather steep for all he eats is jingle bells. His tummy must be strong. He used to try to run away, but doesn't try that trick today because he knows that when he runs he'll jingle loud and long."

Taken Copy said, "Oh, please tell me what sort of bird that one can be that has but one eye in its head." The man let out a sigh. "He is a lazy bird," said he. "He sleeps half of the time, you see, and thus flies only half the time, so only needs one eye."

A bird then flew into a cage. It wished to come out of the cage. "It's crashing up against the bars," said Duncy, with concern. "Please let it come out here with us. I'm sure it will not start a fuss." The man replied, "How wrong you are you'll very shortly learn."

The funny bird was then let out. It made the Tynmies run and shout when it began to fly around and chase them here and there.

Real quickly it nipped Duncy's nose and scared him near out of his clothes. Brave Scouty chased the bird away and shouted, "That's not fair!"

Napoleon III won the Battle of Magnets.

Boners are actual humorous tid-bits found in examination papers, essays, etc., by teachers.

Bones are the framework of the body. If I had not bones in me I should not have so much shape as I have now. I should not have so much motion and grand-ma would be glad but I like motion. Joints are good things to have in bones. There are two or three kinds.

The ball and socket joint like my shoulder is the best. Teacher showed it to us only it was the thigh bone of a cow. All my bones put together in the right place make a skeleton and if I leave any out or put some in the wrong place it ain't no skeleton. Some cessors and assigns, so that there may be a minimum danger of contact between its fixtures, wires and ducts, and the fixtures, wires cables or ducts of the Company, its successors and assigns; nor shall the wires of the City of Santa Ana be unduly exposed to foreign electrical current in excess of five thousand (5,000) volts; And Provided, further, that in case of rearrangement of said plant, the City of Santa Ana will at its own expense, care for its own fixtures, wires and conduits, and said Company, its successors and assigns, assumes no liability whatsoever, either to said City or to any person, firm or corporation whatsoever, for any damage or claim of any kind arising out of the construction, maintenance, operation, removal or presence of the equipment herein described and to be used by the City solely in maintaining the efficiency of its fire alarm system and police force.

Section 4. Section 6. All the terms and conditions of this franchise shall bind and be binding on each and every assignee, holder and owner of the same, and on each and every person, firm or corporation lessee of any of its privileges.

Section 7. All construction work shall be in accordance with the standard of the state law and the orders of the Railroad Commission of the State of California, or any other body or authority having jurisdiction in the premises.

Section 8. That whenever it becomes necessary to temporarily rearrange, remove, lower or raise the wires, cables, conduits or other apparatus of said grantee for the crossing thereof or of the line thereof by any building, machinery or other object or to raise its wires, cables, conduits or other apparatus as the necessities of the case require, provided, however, that the person or persons desiring to move any such building, machinery or other object or to do any such work, shall assume and pay to the grantee herein the cost of such rearranging, removing, lowering or raising, and shall, in advance of such moving or work, deposit with said grantee cash or a good and sufficient bond to pay such cost, as estimated by said grantee, and said person or persons shall indemnify and agree to save grantee free and harmless of and from any and all damages or claims of whatever kind or nature, direct or consequential, caused directly or indirectly by such rearranging, passage or work and/or by the temporary changing, altering or removing of said wires, cables, conduits, or other apparatus so as to permit of such crossing, passage or work.

That said notice shall be given not less than five (5) days written notice by the person or persons desiring to accomplish such crossing, passage or work, or of his or its intention so to do, which notice shall detail the route of movement of such building, machinery or other object and/or describe such work and specify the time when the rearrangement, removal, raising or lowering will be required and said notice shall be accompanied by a cash deposit, as aforesaid, or posting with said grantee a good and sufficient bond to pay such cost as aforesaid, and said notice, and the matters therein specified to be done, shall bear the approval of said City or such official of the latter as said City may designate. That in moving said building, machinery or other object, and/or the doing of such work, the route taken and/or the manner of doing such work shall be as in said notice specified, and such moving and/or work shall be accomplished with as much speed as possible, and shall not unnecessarily interfere with or delay telephone or other service by said grantee, or cause the grantee unnecessary expense, loss of time or interruption of service, and shall be done in accordance with such other regulations as said City may by ordinance prescribe.

Section 9. This ordinance granting said franchise is passed and adopted after all the requirements of law have been complied with, had and taken, including the publication of a Notice of Sale of Telephone and Telegraph Franchise, the receiving of bids as called for thereby (the grantee, Southern California Telephone Company, having been the highest bidder thereof), the awarding of said franchise to the said Southern California Telephone Company, the acceptance of said franchise by said corporation and the filing of a bond with said City by said corporation within five days and as required by said "Notice of Sale of Telephone and Telegraph Franchise" and the law, in the penal sum of One Thousand Dollars ($1,000) which runs in favor of and to the said City of Santa Ana, State of California, and is conditioned that the said Southern California Telephone Company shall well and truly observe, fulfill and perform each, every and all of the terms and conditions of this franchise, which bond has been accepted and approved by the City Council acting for said City of Santa Ana.

REPARATIONS AND THE DEBTS

Senator Borah and Nicholas Murray Butler have come out for a modified form of debt cancellation in accord with the conclusions of the Lausanne Conference arrived at by the allied powers of Europe. This is a question which this country sooner or later must face. In the midst of a political campaign no satisfactory discussion can be expected. In their maneuvering for position, neither of the two great parties wants to commit itself to any policy which may affect votes.

The whole question of German reparations, upon which the inter-allied debts hang, has been juggled with ever since the amount was assessed in April, 1921. The Allied governments fixed the sum at $31,680,000,000, to be paid in annual installments of $476,000,000, plus 26 per cent of the value of German exports. The next two years were hectic years, during which Germany fell behind in her payments, deflated her currency to the vanishing point, while France and Belgium invaded and occupied the Ruhr, an act demoralizing quite as much to the invaders as to Germany. Germany has claimed that in actual payments and "deliveries in kind," she paid over ten billions of dollars during that period. The Reparations Commission credited her with payments of slightly less than two billions, while an unofficial study by the Institute of Economics at Washington gave her credit for upwards of six billions.

Then came the Dawes plan. According to this plan no fixed amount was assessed, but payments beginning with $238,000,000 for 1924-25, and running up to $595,000,000 in 1928-29 and on, were called for. Under this agreement, Germany paid nearly two billions between 1924-29. The plan broke down, and was superseded by the Young plan which set reparations at $8,221,000,000, to be paid in annual installments of $473,000,000 from 1929 to 1966. This plan broke down in the financial crisis of August, 1931.

Now the conference of Lausanne has called for a lump payment of $714,000,000 to finish reparations payments. It will be seen that this payment, together with payments already made, reduces the original amount assessed upon Germany far below what was assessed in 1921. The politicians of Europe have been compelled to surrender to stubborn economic facts. Briand stated the situation concisely when he said that in order to pay the reparations, Germany would have to flood the markets of the world with her goods, and reduce her imports to a minimum of necessary goods. This can only be done to the detriment of the commerce and the industry of the Allies.

That is the present status of the debt problem; and how any discerning man can hope for the payment of reparations and the inter-allied debts presents a problem in credulity difficult to comprehend. We believe that Senator Borah and President Butler have come to the right position on the matter.

GANDHI DETERMINES TO FAST

Gandhi, who is in prison at Poona, has declared that he will start a death fast, unless Great Britain changes its position upon the issue of the untouchables.

It appears that according to the government plan in voting, the untouchables are not recognized as a part of the Hindu group, and will vote in separate elections. This is contrary to Gandhi's idea, and he insists that if they are not recognized equal with the other groups, and if an attempt is made to create a separate electorate for the depressed classes, he will fast unto his death.

The British reply to this is that the moment he starts his fast, they will release him from jail, and permit him to do his fasting outside of the confines of the public property. He will not be their unwilling guest in his fasting. This, of course, will affect certainly the influence of Gandhi's fast. For Gandhi to fast his life away, as a British prisoner, in the interest of justice to the lower classes of India, would be such an event in the social history of India as to insure such increased strength to the Indian cause, both in India and in the world at large, that Great Britain's grip would be all but loosened.

It would have much the same effect, probably, if Gandhi continued his fast, even outside of prison. He is held in reverence by millions of people in India, and dying in that manner, in the interest of justice, would give him greater power and influence in his death, even, than he has had in his life. For Great Britain to change her attitude upon the depressed classes, in the face of this challenge, might be the wiser plan. But the precedent which would be established probably would weaken her power with the Indian people themselves.

GERMANY WANTS TREATY PROVISIONS FULFILLED

Germany has declared that she must have the right to arm in proportion to other first class powers. At first thought, this would seem to be out of harmony with the Versailles treaty, and with prevailing sentiment. But, as a matter of fact, it is in entire harmony with it, and there are only one or two things for the nations to do, and that is, to promptly disarm in harmony with the promises made Germany in the Versailles Treaty, and in the letter that Premier Clemenceau wrote to the German representatives at the time, or else to remove the restrictions upon Germany's arms.

At the time that the provisions for restricting the German army to 100,000, and her battleships to a displacement of 10,000 tons, etc., it was definitely stated that this was only preliminary to the general disarmament by the nations. It has now been 13 years since this treaty, and there has been no fulfillment of it, and the first meeting actually to carry out the provisions of this treaty was held in February of this year. There was much discussion, many propositions, but no conclusion.

Arthur T. Henderson, president of the disarmament conference, speaking before the National Peace Council yesterday in London, very aptly said:

Why shouldn't the World War Allies get together and recognize that what was said in their names in 1919 must bind them? Why should they not publicly declare their intention to remove Germany's position of inferiority with all possible haste and to restore Germany's equality in military status? This sentiment, expressed by Mr. Henderson, is not that he favors the armament of any nation, but he is perfectly clear on the obligations that rest upon the other nations.

WAITERS RACE IN NAPLES

In Naples yesterday there was a contest between waiters. It consisted of the competing waiters running a relay race through the streets while they balanced a tray on which were a bottle of wine and a glass. Ninety-five waiters in relay teams of five men each competed. The report says there was "negligible spillage." We assume that if one of the bottles or glasses had been dropped and broken it would have signaled sufficiently notable and rare clumsiness to have been mentioned in the dispatch.

It suggests a new contest for those people addicted to queer marathons and stunts such as flag pole sitting. And it is much more useful.

Over the Top in Tennis

The victory of Ellsworth Vines over Henri Cochet at Forest Hills signifies something more than that California retains its prestige in tennis and that the American championship remains in the United States. With the passing of Tilden, which was foreshadowed as long ago as 1925, Cochet came to be the acknowledged king of the amateur courts. In defeating this doughty champion in straight sets, young Mr. Vines has definitely nailed to the tennis masthead the flag of a new generation of players. When Cochet first began to threaten the supremacy of Tilden, Vines was preuder of his first long pants than of his tennis stroke.

"How long will the French supremacy last?" a question asked by the tennis world in 1927 and 1928, was answered by another question: "How long will it take the United States to develop a crop of champions." Both questions have been answered this year at Forest Hills. Not only has the French been defeated by Vines but the tournament has uncovered two other young Americans who promise to give Vines worthy support in the campaign to recover the Davis cup next year.

In the semi-finals Clifford Sutter of New Orleans offered the American champion so hard a battle that victory for the Southerner three times hinged on two points and after playing seventy-five games in the set he was only five behind Vines.

Wilmer Allison, who, although one of the new American crop, is a Davis cup veteran, proved in his valiant battle against Cochet that he may be counted on to deliver in the singles as he did in the doubles this summer at Auteil.

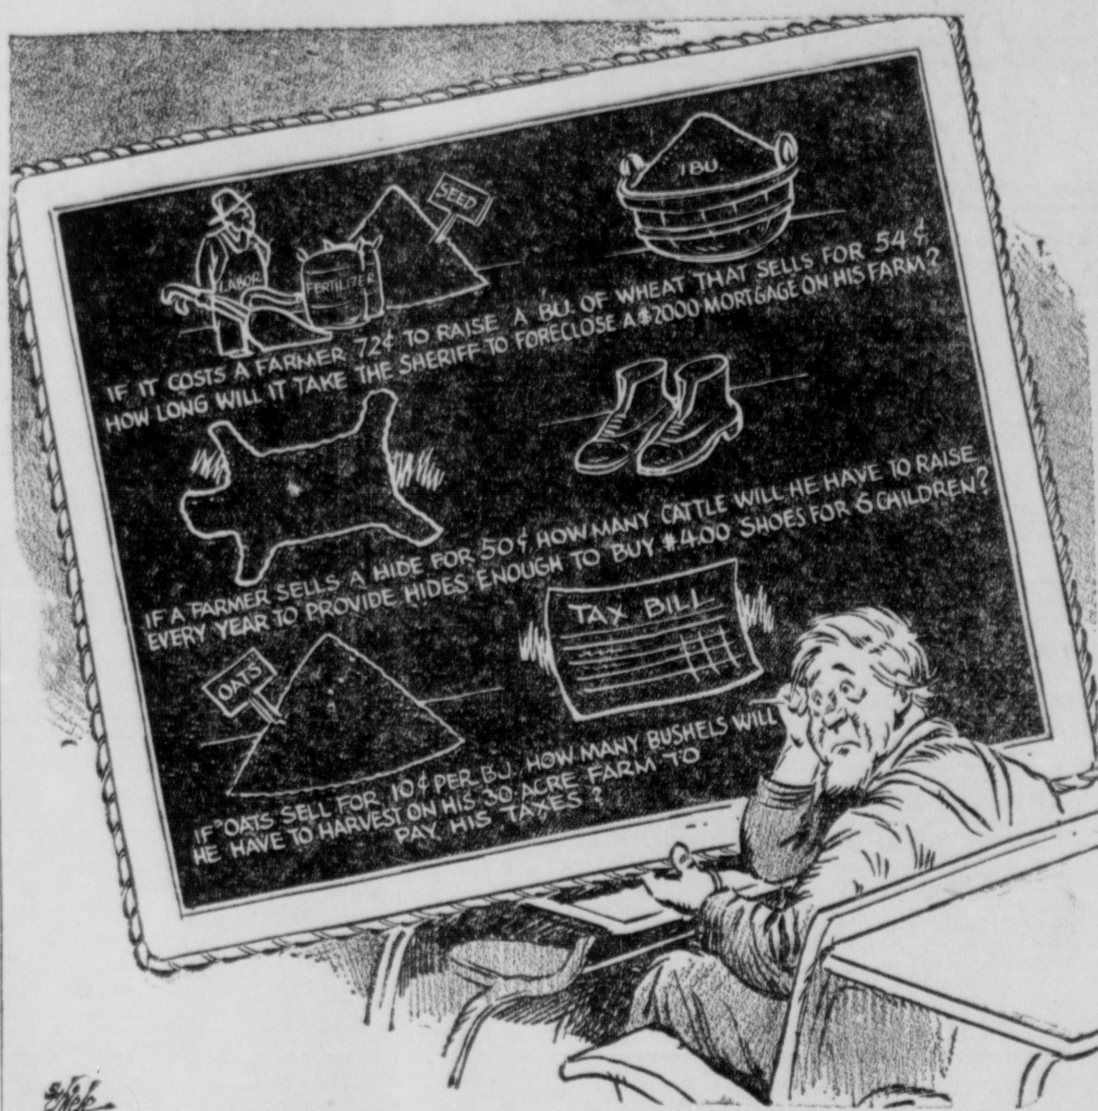

America will go after the Davis cup with high hopes next year. The crowning factor in our good prospect is the proof a Californian youth has given on that he is the master of the great little Henri from Paris. America's young tennis crop has ripened.

Where They Pay to Hear Poetry

Whether one regrets or rejoices in the decline of poetry he will be interested in the news from Bogota. The Colombians still revel in the fine frenzy of the poetic muse. So keen is their interest that despite the depression they fill one of the largest of the Bogota theaters every night at $2.50 a seat to hear a popular elocutionist recite verses. Ovals, flowers and columns of newspaper space are bestowed on the artist and her art.

The future seems to go beyond any ever occasioned in northern climes by poetry or poetic recitals as such. The poetic Elizabethan dramas are hardly comparable for these had too many other elements contributing to their popularity. In Victorian days the elocutionist flourished in this country. Schools sprang up in which young ladies were taught to recite (with gestures). Competitions were held, medals awarded and the elocutionist was a feature of benefit performances in Main street towns. "Christmas in the Workshop" and the "Face on the Barroom Floor" became as familiar as the torch song of today.

More Truth Than Poetry

DEPARTED GLORY

Some years ago there was a time
When we could find romance in crime.
The deeds that Kidd
And Blackbeard did
Were told in song and story.
The acts of men like Jesse James,
Of base and predatory aims,
In the pursuit
Of swag and loot
Brought these rude rascals glory.

But in those days we rarely saw
A man who lived outside the law;
And never knew
The scoundrels who
Were widely known as killers.
Accounts of how they filled with fear
The population, far and near,
We only read
When they were dead,
And then in ten-cent "thrillers."

But now along the public street
Such men one any day may meet
As to and fro
They daily go
For "spotted" victims questing.
When racketeer and gangster fights
Disturb our peace of mind of nights,
The tales of crooks
In ancient books
Don't seem so interesting.

Thoughts On Modern Life

By GLENN FRANK

EDUCATION AT THE CROSS-ROADS

I have commented several times lately upon the fact of the economic crisis that confronts our schools.

We are spending huge sums of money on education.

Of course, the sums are not huge in comparison with the sums we spend on wars, on tobacco, on candy, on chewing gum, on cosmetics, or on movies.

The sums are big enough, however, to make the taxpayers of the United States look with questioning eyes upon educational expenditures.

This mood of questioning has coined a slogan:

"Cut out the frills and concentrate on the fundamentals!"

Every good schoolman will agree that it is the part of wisdom to stick to fundamentals and to keep the schools free from wasteful frills.

But, if we are to cut out the frills and concentrate on the fundamentals, we must decide what is frill and what is fundamental.

It is at this point that taxpayers and teachers alike dissolve into a hundred and one bewildered and warring camps.

And we shall never come nationally to a dependable distinction between frill and fundamental until we come nationally to a clear notion of what the purpose of the schools is.

Carleton Washburne recently made a tour of the world on which he asked the educational leaders of the major nations three leading questions. They were:

(1) Do we want to educate children to perpetuate and perfect the existing social order?

(2) Do we want to educate children to work toward a new social order, the outlines and aims of which we have definitely forecast in our own minds?

(3) Do we want to devote the schools primarily to the development of each individual to his own fullest capacity, leaving the future social order to a generation of individuals so developed?

I submit that until, as a people, we Americans have answered these three questions with clarity and conviction, until we have decided which of these three objectives should be the goal of our schools, we are in no position to decide what is frill and what is fundamental in education.

Our Children

By Angelo Patri

THE GIFTED CHILD

It is not easy to bear a gift. Its presence in the personality makes itself felt in a thousand painful ways. It drives the body and mind in its effort to find growth and expression. It beats its wings against the tender places of the spirit. It knows no rest and gives none until it is released and fulfilled.

The children who bear gifts are unfortunate in many ways, viewed from the standpoint of the practical, comfort-seeking people about them. "Why can't you be like your brothers and sisters?" You don't hear them wishing for the moon. You don't see them neglecting their opportunities and spending their time foolishly. Get busy. Stop this fussing. Do something sensible.

Doing something sensible is exactly what the gifted child cannot do. Gifts are never sensible. They are enchantments. They work their will with the chosen ones. Given time they come into this world is born in them.

The family of the gifted child suffers unless the child is trained to understand his situation. Unless he is taught that he is carrying a double responsibility, unless he is helped to see himself clearly, he is likely to make serious mistakes. The years between eighteen and thirty are hard for these young people. They have this urge to do and to be what other folk cannot understand. They feel experiences keenly. Their desires are stronger, their ambitions loftier, their failures worse than those of others. In that lies their growth. They must carry on in spite of their difficulties and we must help them.

One of the great forces for their stable growth is their duty to the family. It is all very well for a brilliant child to say, "I must live my own life. I must fulfill my destiny." He speaks truth, but not the whole, not the greater part of it. He is part of a group. He has been dependent upon them for life, care, and growth through the years of his being. His life is wound about theirs. He has obligations to them which must be met, if he is to store up the energy and the power his gift will need for complete expression.

I do not believe that any form of artistic expression is helped by selfishness. Selfishness is ugly and art is beautiful. How could a spirit steeped in selfishness create true beauty?

I know that there are families who would devour the children if they could. Children must defend themselves against that sort of thing, but they seldom have to face it. Usually families are too unselfish in their attitudes toward their gifted members. It is usually the other way around. The gifted child eats up the family.

It is against that I protest for the child's own sake. He cannot be the perfect spirit his gift demands for expression unless he has disciplined himself through service, sacrifice, and the observance of his idealism. Before one can give a perfect gift he must first have yielded up himself in its service. That may mean the homely duties of family responsibility. It often does. Gifts from the gods are always disguised.

BULGARIANS RETREAT

On Sept. 16, 1918, allied troops continued their hot pursuit of the Bulgarian Second Army, which had been completely beaten in the offensive which started the day before.

The breach between the First and Second Bulgarian Armies was widened and the position of the Second Army was extremely critical.

The advance of the two days opened the way for an allied drive into the heart of Bulgaria itself. Military observers reported that Bulgarian resistance was heartless and expressed the opinion that Bulgaria would soon be out of the war.

Paris was bombed by a large squadron of German planes. Six persons were killed and 15 were injured. One plane was brought down by anti-aircraft fire.

JUST COULDN'T BE

"I know an artist who painted a cobweb so realistically on his dining room ceiling that the maid spent an hour trying to get it down."

"I'm afraid I can't believe that, old chap."

"Why not? Artists have been known to do such things."

"Perhaps, but maids haven't."—Answers.
